

Excise, New Income Tax Slashes Planned

Goals Set For 1966 And 1967

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's long-range plans call for a cut in excise taxes in 1966 and another reduction in income taxes the following year, informed sources said today.

They said there is a strong possibility President Johnson will announce this tentative timetable during next fall's presidential campaign.

There have been a few public hints of further tax revision. On April 28, Johnson said he could "see another tax cut a few years down the road" if the $12-billion income tax reduction enacted this year stimulated the economy into providing enough revenue to balance the budget.

Extensive Cuts Planned
There are signs that the administration would consider clipping almost every category of excise taxes, although there may be both congressional and administration opposition to trimming some earmarked taxes, such as gasoline and vehicle taxes used for federal-state road programs.

In February, Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said at a news conference that reductions in excise taxes could come in 1965, but he indicated that such cuts might not be pushed until 1966 or later.

During Senate consideration of the tax cut bill some senators demanded reduction in excises along with the income tax reduction. Proponents of the tax reduction agreed then to future hearings on the excise taxes.

Many Items Covered
Excise levies cover a wide variety of products and services: cosmetics, jewelry, furs, telephone calls, automobiles, gasoline, theater admissions, sporting goods, liquor and cigarettes.

These levies are expected to provide $14.6 billion in revenue during the fiscal year which begins July 1—an increase of $3 billion since 1960.

Proposals for further revisions in income tax rates obviously would be timed to coincide with the first balanced budget since 1960. Treasury officials talk about balancing the budget in fiscal 1967, which begins July 1, 1966, although they admit this is a tough target.

A dramatic improvement in federal finances obviously would improve the chances of persuading Congress to reduce taxes further.

Lima's Police Alert For More Disorders In Wake of Tragedy

Death Toll Set at 328 as Result of Panic in Stadium

BY THOMAS J. STONE

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Feelings ran high in the Peruvian capital today and police were on the alert for more disorders in the wake of Sunday's bloody finale to a soccer game.

Police announced an official toll of 328 dead in the panic after police fired tear gas to check a riot in Lima's National Stadium.

The police said 122 of the victims had not been identified. It was the sports world's worst disaster, and the International Soccer Federation, with headquarters in Zurich, Switzerland, asked the Peruvian association for detailed information.

The rioters were protesting a referee's decision against the Peruvian team in a Peru-Argentina pre-Olympic match.

Police Curb Mob
The police used tear gas again Monday to break up a small demonstration by students in front of San Marcos University. The police said inflammatory speeches were being made. Police reinforcements repelled a Lima mob headed toward the home of Commander Jorge de Asumbuja, whom they accused of ordering tear gas shells fired into the crowd pouring onto the soccer playing field.

Asumbuja said none of the gas grenades was fired into the stands. He blamed locked exit gates for the mass suffocation and trampling of the victims.

Fight Among Fans
Argentina was leading 1-0 when Peru scored a goal on an accidental kick by an Argentine player. Referee Eduardo Pazos of Uruguay nullified the point because of a foul.

Fighting broke out among some of the 45,000 fans and police escorted Pazos and the players from the field. Pazos declared Argentina the victor.

As portions of the mob surged toward the playing field, police fired tear gas into the crowd. In an attempt to escape the choking fumes, the mob surged toward exit gates, locked to keep non-paying youths from sneaking in to watch the game.

Morton, Hatfield GOP Leaders at Convention

Oregon Governor to be Keynote As Well as Temporary Chairman

BY LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican National Committee meets today to approve Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky and Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon as the top officers for the party's 1964 convention.

The convention arrangements committee named Morton permanent chairman Monday. He had no opposition.

Overcoming opposition from some backers of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., the committee combined the jobs of temporary chairman and keynote speaker and gave them to Hatfield.

Generally Morton is considered a moderate Republican. Hatfield, who usually is associated with the party's liberal wing, had been recommended for permanent chairman by the Republican Governor's Conference.

Back No Candidates
Neither man has openly supported any of the potential GOP presidential nominees.

Some Goldwater supporters had said they would fight any move to combine the job of temporary chairman — for which Hatfield had been ticketed — and the post of keynote speaker, which was wide open after National Chairman William E. Miller withdrew from consideration.

After the committee voted 28 to 20 to combine the jobs and then picked Hatfield over Gov. Tim M. Babcock of Montana by an even wider margin, 28 to 10, spokesmen for Goldwater said they were satisfied.

Miller, announcing the selections, noted that Republicans had only two major convention officers prior to 1952.

Television Problem
With no contests for the nomination in 1956 and 1960, he said, the three-way split of top jobs.

Reynolds Reappoints Hanson, Jankowski to Conservation Agency

MADISON (AP) — Martin Hanson of Mellen and Milwaukee Alderman Harold Jankowski were reappointed Monday to the State Conservation Commission by Gov. John W. Reynolds.

Both nominations were rejected by the Republican-controlled Senate when initially made by the Democratic governor.

Hanson, 37, is chairman of the Wisconsin Council of Resource Development and Conservation and a brother of Louis Hanson, the Democratic state chairman.

Senate Gets Amendments On Civil Rights

Dirksen Predicts Enough Votes to Stop Filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders introduced today the package of amendments they are counting on to win passage of a revised civil rights bill.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen announced Monday after a fifth and final GOP conference on the proposed changes that they would be ready for introduction late today—the 54th day of Senate debate on civil rights.

Predicts Closure
He also predicted that the votes will be available to shut off a Southern filibuster against civil rights legislation. "I believe we can get closure," he said. "And I think we have to have closure now."

Dirksen said the changes will be discussed thoroughly and ample time will be allowed for rebuttal by Southern senators, who already have pronounced the package completely unacceptable.

Some senators have said an attempt will be made the second week in June to get the two-thirds vote needed to invoke cloture and shut off the Dixie oratory that has blocked action on the House-passed bill.

Dirksen said this may be a little early.

Decision Required
He noted that a jury trial amendment has been before the Senate for three weeks without a final vote.

This issue must be decided. Turn to Page 4, Col 5

Ike Points to Necessity for Vice President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declaring that "there should always be someone at the helm," former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says the vice president should have authority to take over the duties of a physically or mentally disabled president.

And in the event the vice presidency is vacant the president should be empowered to appoint his second in command, Eisenhower said.

The former president told a national conference on presidential succession Monday of three occasions during his terms as president when he said he was physically unable to carry out his duties—during his 1955 heart attack, an illness attack in 1956 and a mild stroke in 1957.

But he said a disability need not be physical to create problems.

"Let's suppose," he said, "the president is a little bit wacky." With the vice president acting as president, there would be time to get "expert medical and psychological advice" to determine whether the president was able to carry out his duties, Eisenhower added.

Congress should have the final decision, he said, in the event of a quarrel between the president and top government leaders on presidential disability.

Gunman Sought In Kidnap Case

PARIS (AP) — A gunman, wanted for the slaying of a policeman, was sought today as the key man of the Dassault kidnapping.

Detectives said the leader of the four-man gang was Jacques Pierre Casanova, 36, who shot down a Paris policeman during a holdup last July. He is also wanted for at least a dozen armed robberies in the Paris region.

Three other members of the kidnap gang were arrested on Sunday at or near the farmhouse where Mrs. Marcel Dassault, 43, wife of a leading aircraft manufacturer, had been held for 35 hours.

Apollo Moonship Test Postponed Until Thursday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The first attempt to orbit an unmanned model of the Apollo moonship was postponed today to Thursday because of a frozen nitrogen valve in the ground support equipment.

The trouble occurred after the countdown on the giant Saturn I booster rocket had advanced to within an hour and 55 minutes of the scheduled launching time.

After wrestling unsuccessfully with the problem for nearly three hours, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration called off the shot for two days. The time is required to replace the faulty valve and check out the new system.

The valve is part of a system which pumps liquid nitrogen to cool an instrument package between the top of the rocket and the Apollo space craft.

The spacecraft is the same shape as the vehicle which astronauts one day will ride, but it carries none of the equipment which will be aboard the real thing.

Miss Van Schindel was going to a farm field with her brother to bring home cows grazing there. Gary had decided to plow some acreage near the pasture.

A witness told Sheriff Calvin Spica and Kemps that when the tractor turned off Lau Road, it appeared the driver momentarily accelerated the tractor. At that moment the tractor rolled over.

Gary was pinned under the middle of the tractor for about 30 minutes. He suffered burns to his thigh from the hot tractor engine. He is reported in satisfactory condition.

State police said several demonstrators also were injured in the clash as bullets, bricks and bottles whizzed through the air in the city's Negro district.

Hundreds of whites milled along the edge of the district, heckling guardsmen and shouting taunts at integrationists across the street.

Further disorder was averted when Brig. Gen. George M. Gelston clamped a curfew on the town and guardsmen moved shoulder to shoulder down the main street to clear it of spectators. Ironically named Race Street, it divides the Negro section of about 4,000 from the 8,000 white population.

None of Monday night's injuries was described as serious, but the clash was the third outbreak in two weeks and the most serious in nearly a year.

The guard was ordered into Cambridge by Gov. J. Millard Tawes last summer after a series of shootings and arson. It has been there since.

Synthetics Can Stand Exposure

When you choose a new curtain fabric consider how much of the time the sun will be pouring in on it. There's a best fiber for heavy exposure to the sun with many more choices for light exposure.

When the sun hits your curtains four hours or more a day you'll need to use curtains made of fibers that have high resistance to rotting. You may use other kinds but you'll want to protect them with a lining or use separate draw curtains or shades.

If you'll choose Dacron or Portrel in the polyester family or Verel in the modacrylic family you'll have little problem with deterioration. Both saran and glass fibers stand up well under sun exposure.

For rooms where the sunlight is indirect or filtered through trees you can use cotton, acetate, rayon and linen as well as the Dacron, Fortrel, Verel, saran and glass fibers. When these fibers are made up into shiny fabrics with heavy yarns and a close weave they usually stand up better to the sun.

You may not notice any wearing from the sun until you wash or dry clean the curtains or dye colors fall out while other parts of the curtain stay whole.

Even the sun-resistance fibers may fade in the sun even though they don't rot out. Most drapery fabrics will fade some and there is no guide for judging which colors or fibers will made bad.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

UNOFFICIAL VISIT

Dear Louise, Passing through here shortly on his way to lecture in another city is an old friend who will make an "unofficial" visit for the weekend and will be staying with us. He will go with us to an afternoon "at home" given by close friends. As his visit will not be publicly heralded via newspapers, television or radio, how should I introduce him when the occasion arises? I realize that my host and hostess will do most of the introducing. But should we identify him? He is a critic and famous author of a best-seller book. He makes frequent appearances on television. He may be recognized, but I wonder if we should give his full name when introducing him.

Louise Davis Answers:

Out of consideration for Mr. Celebrity and the guests, I advised that his full name be given. If you just give his last name, as one usually does at an introduction, people may not recognize him. They might acknowledge with just a "How do you do, Mr. X," then be very disappointed afterwards when they learn a famous person came and went without any more ado. At the same time, Mr. X might be let down. During introductions, you could say to a guest, "I would like to have you meet Mr. X." Then continue with, "Mr. X is author of Such and Such book and is stopping off with us between lectures." An alternative might be, "Our guest here is the author and lecturer, A.Y.X., so, Mrs. Smith, may I present Mr. X."

Biologist, Geneticist Tell Blue and Brown Eyed Story

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you made the statement that two blue-eyed parents could have a brown-eyed child. I believe you are wrong.
To have a brown-eyed child at least one of the parents must be brown-eyed because the gene for the expression of brown eye color is dominant. (Ann Landers note: A gene is one of the elements of the germ plasma which transmits hereditary characteristics.)
If your statement is true, then it should be noted that all the recent books on biology, zoology and genetics dealing with human inheritance are incorrect. I of-fer the following references to substantiate my position: (1) Wadswadek, J. E. General Zoology. Wm. C. Brown Co. (1963); (2) Ville, C. A. Biology, 4th Ed. Saunders, (1963); (3) Marsland, Carl Whitkop, the distinguished author of the Human Genetics, 2nd Edition, W. H. Freeman and Co. (1960). Borshy, Arnold, Genetics, C. V. Mosby Co. (1960). So, to repeat — if it happens in your family, think nothing of it.

Dr. Whitkop says: "In the early days of genetics it was believed that eye color was determined by a single pair of genes. We now know that this is incorrect and that eye color is transmitted by at least three genes. In the vast majority of cases two blue-eyed parents will produce a blue-eyed child, but it is now an established fact that two blue-eyed parents can produce a brown-eyed child."
Dear M.J.F.: Thank you, Professor, and thanks to the hundreds of other professors and students who wrote to tell me I was wrong. Your comments are appreciated, but I am not wrong.
My principle authority is Dr. Saunders, (1963); (3) Marsland, Carl Whitkop, the distinguished

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I could have kissed you when you said two blue-eyed people could have a brown-eyed baby.
My husband and I are both blue-eyed and we have a brown-eyed girl. For years I have been subjected to snide remarks by his family. It was always said as a half-joke, but I got the point.
When your column came out I went down and bought six extra copies of the newspaper and mailed them to the proper people.
You have no idea what you have done for me. Many thanks. — Mrs. XYZ
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter has been asked to the senior prom. She is all excited because the boy who asked her is very nice.
Last night she told us that she is expected to pay half of the expenses, which will come to about $18. According to her it is customary for the girl's father to hand the fellow the money in an envelope when he comes to get her.
Things have changed since I was in high school but I would have been insulted if a girl's father had handed me an envelope to help pay for a date. May I hear from you? — Puzzled Papa
Dear Papa: Granted, proms are terribly expensive these days but Papa should not have to hand the guy an envelope when he comes to take out his daughter. You are absolutely right.
Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Sheinwold Don't Let Opponent Pull Trump

In many hands the best line of play is to draw two rounds of trumps and then go about your other business. You can't afford to do this if an opponent can gain the lead and draw a third round of trumps.

South hopefully put up dummy's queen of clubs on the opening lead, but East covered with the king. Declarer won with the ace.

South next took dummy's top trumps. Declarer ruffs a diamond, setting up dummy's last card in the suit. Now West can take the queen of trumps whenever he pleases, but he cannot defeat the contract.

(Copyright, 1964)

diamonds and ruffed a diamond. West carefully refrained from over-ruffing. When declarer led a heart, West won and drew a third round of trumps with the queen.

This was a fatal blow to South's chances. He could ruff only once in dummy and could not set up and cash dummy's last diamond. Down two. Drawn.

Correct Play

The correct play is to take the ace of clubs and draw just one round of trumps. Then South cashes the top diamonds and discards his losing club on the third round of diamonds.

If East leads a club (as good a defense as any), South ruffs and gives up a heart trick. South ruffs the club return and finally leads a second round of trumps. By this time it is impossible for an opponent to draw a third round.

Declarer ruffs a diamond, setting up dummy's last card in the suit. Now West can take the queen of trumps whenever he pleases, but he cannot defeat the contract.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Questionable Calories

Lovely readers of this column have posed the following questions on reducing calories. If you can answer them without peeking, you are the girl who could reduce and stay reduced.

Q. How much weight can be lost on a 500 calorie per day diet? A. Lots, and your vigor too! The safe reducing count is 1200 to 1500 calories. Doctors sometimes prescribe lower counts, but they also supervise the "patient" every step of the way.

Q. It is true that a cut of only 500 calories per day brings satisfactory reductions? A. Yes, if that amount is cut from your normal calorie quota. To find your normal quota multiply your ideal weight by 15. From the total subtract 500 calories and you have your reducing quota. Using this arithmetic, you lose one pound a week.

Q. Since exercise increases the appetite, why is it recommended for reducers? A. Studies show that increased activity is not followed by a like increase in appetite. The value of exercise is that it burns up the calorie intake faster than sedentary pursuits, and thus spreads the reducing process. A fast, half-hour walk disposes of 560 calories.

Grease Removal Method

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: A two-foot area of our ceiling above the stove is saturated with grease. Our improperly placed ceiling fan is not vented out the roof. Therefore the grease vented out by the fan has soaked back through the ceiling. I would like to paint the ceiling. How do I get the grease off first?

A: Cover the greasy area with a thick paste made of powdered whiting or other absorbent powder and a nonflammable liquid spot remover. The spot remover will act as a solvent on the grease, and the absorbent powder like a blotter to draw it out. When the paste is dry or discolored, replace with fresh. Repeat treatment, if necessary. Be sure to keep kitchen windows open while using the spot remover.

Q: We recently moved into a home about a year ago. During the winter some of the doors warped. Is there any way to correct this?

A: Remove the doors and place them concave side up, on horses or across chair backs, in an area where they can remain undisturbed for a week to ten days. On the raised ends of the door, place heavy weights (pails of water, large rocks, big books, etc.) and allow to remain until the door is straight again. Warping is due to moisture working into the wood, swelling the fibers. Examine all surfaces and edges of the door and finish any that have been left unfinished, with paint or varnish or shellac, this is to seal the surface against the entrance of moisture and prevent warping again.

Q: Our year-old house has redwood siding to which a water-repellent type of approved preservative was applied. Several areas on the redwood surface are developing blackish stains. How can this be remedied?

A: The preservative used may have been stored too long before it was applied and became contaminated. When the treated redwood surfaces become wet, a bluish-black stain results. Apply a solution of oxalic acid (poison) of four ounces of acid per gallon of water. After an hour, rinse off with plenty of water. Repeat treatment, if necessary.

Or the blackish areas may be caused by mildew on the surface or in the finish film. To remove this, scrub the surface with a scouring type cleanser. Then rinse with a chlorine bleach solution, followed by rinsing with clear water.

Make Demands of 4-Year-Old Reasonable, Consistently Firm

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Dr. Jones: My four-year-old daughter Jeanne and I have been having a hard time. I mean things when she can't have her way. A minute later, she's willing to do what she was told to do. But that's only after we start scolding and shaming her. Please suggest a better way of handling this. Dr. Jones problem. MRS. J. J. D.

Stop scolding and shaming her. Simply insist that she do what she's supposed to do and insist that she stop doing whatever she isn't supposed to do. And make sure your expectations are reasonable. The book the title of which I'm sending you will help you determine that.

Dear Dr. Jones: My 11-year-old grandson is a very emotional child and appears to be seeking security. His father is not one who assists him in any way. The child asked his father if he loved him, and his father ignored him completely. Then when the boy asked his father which person he liked the most, his father replied, "Myself."

The child's mother must be father and mother to him, helping him in all his difficulties and problems, and his school work. Yet strange to say, the child seems to want to be with his father. He sits beside him at mealtime and goes on asking him questions, even though his father comes up with sarcastic answers that have no bearing on the questions.

My heart aches for this child and his mother. I should like your comments please.
MRS. R. E.

Where are you getting all your detailed information of what goes on in another home? Sounds like a one-sided declaration by the mother.

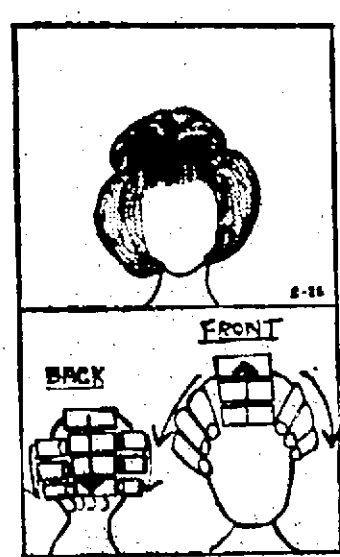

The fact that the child continues to seek closeness with the father suggests that the father isn't half as bad as he's cracked up to be. The mother probably intrudes far too much on the boy's privacy and then greatly resents the fact that he turns away from her smothering and seeks out the father. So she has to make the father out to be worse than he is. Be a wise grandmother and don't let yourself get involved in the wife's efforts to show how bad her husband is. Next time the mother starts to brag about how much she puts up for, suggest she obtain some marital counseling at the agency whose name I'm sending you. If the marriage is as bad as she claims it is, she needs personal professional counseling, not just a sympathetic audience.

TAFY'S TIPS
By Dolly Martin

For the hair style featured today, use large bouffant rollers in front and down the back. On the sides, you can use the same size roller, or one size smaller if you have the assorted package on hand. At the nape of the neck, though, use clips, bobby pins or the teeny-weeny rollers to catch those slippery ends.

This hair-do is especially lovely for summer. To brush out, start with the sides first, keeping the top separated from the rest. Then brush out the top and tie that portion with a large ribbon. Take the ends and gently spread into a fan effect. To make it a more bouffant hair-do, first brush in the wrong direction until it practically stands on end. Then smooth it into place the right way. All ends are turned under for this neat style.

Get Finances on Firm Footing Before Adding Obligations

BY MARY FEELEY
Can a loan on money be repaid?

Dear Miss Feeley: Can we afford to save for a house? My husband's take home pay is $280 a month—$30 being deducted for a thrift account. We have two children under three. Our expenses are:

Rent, $85; insurance (life and hospitalization) $24.44; car payments (8 more to go), $52.44; bank loan, $18.10 (6 payments left); food, $50.00; electricity and gas, $6.

We expect to pay off the car with our tax refund and apply $50 each month to pay off the bank loan. Our problem is: after we pay off all bills, should we put $50 additional in thrift? I say "Yes," and my husband says "No."

As long as we've managed three years without it we won't miss the extra $50. What do you say?

We know we can buy the house we want for under $12,000. I expect to start as a cosmetics representative soon and that money would be spent for incidentals and extras not allowed in our budget now—baby sitters, shows, meals out, etc. Is my idea feasible or would we be in over our heads?

Mrs. E. J. G., Aurora, Ill.

Dear Mrs. G.: Sounds to me as if you're in over your heads now. Your budget totals $243.96 a month, using an average of $55 for food, but you don't mention such necessary items as clothes, medical expenses in addition to hospitalization, personal allowances including your husband's on-the-job expenses, miscellaneous items, etc. Your monthly income of $280 leaves only $30 to cover all those! And I'm wondering how you do it!

Of course, when you've paid off both the car and the bank loan you'll be about $70 a month better off. And your expected income from your job will help. But remember that from 20 to 40 per cent of that income will have to be spent for your job expenses. Your food budget is very low—below the standard estimated "low cost" food allowance for your size family. As the children grow, their food costs will mount.

When you take on the purchase of a home, you've also got to think of the cost of maintenance as well as mortgage payments, real estate taxes, insurance, and other related expenses.

I suspect your husband has found the going pretty tough these past three years, and is panting for a little financial relief. I think you'll be smarter to postpone buying a home until you have another year to organize your thinking and especially your resources.

Dear Miss Feeley: Our son who is in high school has an opportunity of taking a full time job this summer, earning a salary. His father thinks this is an excellent idea, and our son's friends will be working and earning their own money.

However, I think he should spend his summer taking a school course in math which his teacher has recommended. Do you feel that satisfying the desire to "earn his living" is more important than concentrating on his education?

Mrs. C. W., New York City

Dear Mrs. W.: I go along with you and his teacher. Since his need for earning money is not pressing, he should consider furthering his education for his real job in life.

Remind him that the educational requirements for a young man are getting stricter by the year. He'll never miss the money he might earn but he might very well miss that additional math later on, since Bureau of Census figures show average income of males who completed high school to be about $6,000, while those completing four years or more of college average $9,500. He might not like this decision, of course, but parents don't win all the popularity contests with their teen-agers.

You can get Mary Feeley's handy Budget Leaflet by writing to her in care of Appletan Post-Crescent. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

War Talk Instills Fear In Child

You can't keep children away from war talk if they watch television or hear the news. But you can help them to face up to their fears if they develop them.

Just talking about fear of war isn't enough. Your child needs to know that in times of danger there are policemen, teachers and the military to give protection. Knowing that families help each other is very important.

A child under 4 years can play at war games and not be afraid or realize that a bomb does more than go boom. Past four years, children can understand the possibility of war and its harm to home, family and themselves. That's why they need the feeling that parents and others will be around to help them.

Conscious of Fears

By the time children are eight and nine they're especially vulnerable to fears because they're young enough to know that war is something they might not be able to cope with but they also know that they must rely on themselves. You can prepare a child for having his tonsils out because you know what will happen to him but you can't prepare him as well for other unknown emergencies.

One of the best ways to help a child is to help him admit his fears. Never pretend that his fear doesn't exist. Don't give him false reassurances, either. If you say that "nobody is afraid of bombs" he'll know you're fooling him. If he thinks his fears are foolish or that it's silly to be afraid he may begin to feel that he is queer. You may be adding guilt to the fear.

Try to help your child admit his fears of war and then do something positive about it. If it's a nightmare that awakens him comfort him without saying that there are no soldiers or bombs. Just assure him that you are close by to help him.

Answer his questions about war but be brief and don't go into details that confuse him. Some feel that performing routine drills for tornadoes, fire or other emergencies gives a child assurance. Be sure to make it clear to the young child that these drills are just practice.

Sun Makes Skin Tough; Changes Blood Vessels

The sunburn season is here again.

It's a completely safe prediction that at least ten million people will succeed in reasting to a turn on the first long, hot weekend at the beach or pool, or even in the backyard garden.

If you want to get a sunburn, it's easy. Just stay out in the summer sun too long. However, do this with the knowledge that the physical benefits of tanning are at best dubious, and that there is solid evidence that continued exposure to sun weakens and ages the skin.

If you want to get tanned, here are some pointers on how to do it without burning too.

Expose Gradually

Gradual exposure to the sun is the safest and simplest method of acquiring an attractive tan. As a general rule, begin with 15 minutes exposure the first day, and increase the time by a few minutes a day. The time of day is important, with the mid-day period, when the sun is directly overhead, being the hottest for burning purposes.

Actually, the slim possible benefits of tanning are more than offset by its potential hazards. One skin specialist who has studied the problem said recently that he foresees the day when tanning will no longer be a status symbol and the fair, creamy complexion will once again be the vogue.

dual changes in the blood vessels of the exposed surfaces. The connective tissue of the skin degenerates, causing wrinkles and a coarsening of texture. The "V" of the neck becomes permanently reddened and freckle-like dark spots appear on the skin. These spots can sometimes be the start of skin cancer.

Sun bleaches the hair, too, and over a period of time the sun-bleached hair becomes brittle and unmanageable. However, the damaged hair will eventually grow out.

The only really beneficial effect of sunlight on the skin is formation of vitamin D, but the American diet already provides an adequate supply of this vitamin.

Despite the adverse physical indications, doctors are well aware that many of their patients still will continue to work on a suntan each summer. If you feel that you must get tanned, remember the basic rule for gradual tanning—15 minutes the first day, increased by about a third each day. With care, it may be possible to tan without too much burning and a minimum of peeling.

Mrs. Johnson Says Nation Fights Poverty of Spirit

BY FRANCES LEWINE

NEW YORK (AP) — In a glamorous party setting, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson reopened the newly enlarged Museum of Modern Art and declared this generation is in a war against poverty in general and "against poverty of man's spirit," as well.

"This museum is an open door for all who seek enrichment of spirit," said the First Lady Monday night. Then she pressed a button lighting up the museum's terraced sculpture gardens before an applauding crowd of 5,000 invited guests.

The museum celebrated its 25th birthday and its reopening after a six-month remodeling job that cost $7 million.

Mrs. Johnson officiated at the outdoor ceremonies and attended a dinner with 400 donors, art patrons and museum officials in a huge new gallery.

Teast to Artists

Champagne toasts feted the 900 artists, designers, photographers and sculptors whose works are among the 1,200 items on display. The evening was dedicated to these artists, but they had to wait until the dedication ended after 10:30 p.m. to take a look at the galleries.

Mrs. Johnson arrived at the museum at 7:30 p.m. to find 30

Broehm Says Appletan In Good Condition For City of Its Size

While faced with problems triggered by growth and expansion, Appletan is in better shape than most cities of its size in the United States.

The observation came Monday from City Clerk Elden Broehm upon his return from New Orleans where he attended the annual convention of the International Institute of Municipal Clerks.

"The problems are the same all over," Broehm commented, "dealing with growth, debt service and annexations."

Broehm appeared on a panel, "Peculiar Problems of Municipalities", in the 25,000 - 30,000 population group. With him were clerks from Sitka, Kan.; Lexington, Ky.; Goshen, Conn.; and Decatur, Ga.

The clerks, including some from other countries, also had get together in which they informally discussed mutual governmental problems.

Civil Rights Could Induce New Inequality

Most Far-Reaching Statute Proposed in Last 100 Years

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Few people will dispute the theory that discrimination by reason of race or religion or color hurts the pride and feelings of the individuals who are the victims of such discrimination. But the big question today is how to overcome such discrimination without introducing new kinds of inequality, and just how far the power of law itself should be used to limit freedom of association either in private life or in business.

Congress has before it a "civil rights" bill — the most far-reaching statute proposed in nearly 100 years. Probably only a small number of persons throughout the country have had a chance to read it in full, and many of those who have done so possibly have gotten lost in some of its legal phrases and ambiguities.

There have been many suggestions from time to time that legislation of this kind ought to be voted upon by the people directly through a national referendum. But how might the questions be phrased in such a referendum?

Proposed Amendments

An examination of the proposed "compromise" amendments and the language of the House bill which is pending before the Senate leads to the conclusion that there are hundreds of questions that might be submitted to a national referendum and still leave numerous problems unsolved that could arise if the legislation is enacted.

Though not covering by any means all the questions that might be submitted, here is a sample of some on which the

1. Do you want the federal government to control who shall be customers of hotels, motels, lodging houses, restaurants, cafeterias, lunchrooms, lunch counters, soda fountains, gasoline stations, motion-picture houses, concert houses, sports stadiums and arenas?

2. If you own or operate one of these private businesses, do you want the right to serve or refuse to serve whomever you please?

Public Accommodations

3. If you have located your restaurant or other public accommodation in a certain neighborhood whose residents happen to be of one color and have built up your business to attract customers from that area, do you want to be required to serve everybody, regardless of race or color? To put it another way, should anyone who operates a private business be prevented from discriminating for business reasons and be compelled to go to court in lengthy lawsuits to prove what was in his mind?

4. If you are the owner of one of these "public accommodations," do you want a federal judge, without a jury, to be able to put you in prison or impose a fine because he says you failed to obey his order not to "discriminate"?

5. If you own and occupy a lodging house with six rooms to rent, do you want to be subject to punishment for "discrimination," while your competitor who has only five rooms to rent is not subject to such penalties?

6. Do you want the federal government to be authorized to cut off funds from a federally assisted project in your state and injure all citizens alike if what the government calls "discrimination" on racial or religious grounds is proved in a few instances?

Fair Employment

7. If you are an employer with 25 or more employees and your business theoretically "affects commerce," do you want the federal government to limit your right to hire or fire your employees and to set their employment conditions?

8. Do you think it is fair to let the employer with less than 25 employees practice "discrimination" while the employer of more than 25 employees is prohibited from doing so?

9. Do you, as an employer or as an official of a labor union, want agents from a federal commission to be able to cross-examine everybody in your organization to determine whether there has been any "discrimination" in allocating jobs or in conducting the affairs of a business or a union?

10. Do you, as an employer, want to be forced by the federal government to hire applicants who are atheists even though you yourself hold convictions against atheism as a kind of religion that you think condones immorality?

Affirmative Answer

An affirmative answer to all of the above questions today means that the citizen would favor adoption of the pending "civil rights" bill as amended by the proposed "compromise" provisions.

Some of the persons who answer in the negative, however, could still like to see some form of "civil rights" legislation passed but with no such extensive power given to the federal government. Those who do not wish any legislation by the federal government, leaving such matters to the states to handle, would, of course, vote in the negative.

The above questions indicate nevertheless why it is possible for citizens to believe in the doctrine of equal rights and equal protection of the laws and yet disapprove of the methods that may be applied if the pending "civil rights" bill is written into law.

The referendum idea has been used to pass judgment on many proposals for state legislation, but no national referendum on any proposed federal law has ever been taken. Members of Congress sometimes send out lists of questions to voters in their respective districts to ascertain the views of constituents on pending legislation. The final recourse of citizens, therefore, is to vote every two years for the candidates for Congress who favor or oppose particular proposals for legislation.

North Central Most Active of Private Groups Watching Capitol

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON—No private group affected by the activity of any state service or regulatory agency is as attentive in watching developments touching its interests as is North Central Airlines.

The most faithful attendant at meetings of the State Aeronautics Board is Norman Herro, Madison lawyer who is the resident counsel for the state's only locally based scheduled air carrier.

Herro also makes his presence felt by constant interrogation and frequent comment about the board's policies and decisions—usually with a critical emphasis upon what he and his client evidently regard as an excessive zeal in building and expanding airports in Wisconsin localities.

The construction of a new airport of modern dimensions inevitably generates demands for scheduled air service, which the carrier resists out of a fear that its operations in the state will ultimately degenerate into hedge-hopping.

William C. Hansen of Stevens Point, the widely known educator and recently retired president of the State College at Stevens Point, will probably run for the State Senate seat in the revised central Wisconsin district as a Democrat. Robert Dean of Wisconsin, a former Democratic state senator, is the father-in-law of the judge who was recently named a judge by Gov. Reynolds.

John Potter, Wisconsin Rapids lawyer and Republican incumbent in the district, has decided against running for re-election because of the pressure of his private business affairs.

A capital visitor the other day wondered why J. J. Keliher, one of the ranking state officers as head of the State Department of Audit, is not listed in the statehouse telephone directory which lists all other employees down through the clerks.

The reason is that the department's administration several months ago accepted literally Gov. Reynolds' appointment of another auditor, in spite of the fact that Keliher refused to move out of his office until his successor was confirmed by the senate. Because the successor was not confirmed, and because the Supreme Court said the successor could not replace Keliher without such confirmation, Keliher remains at his desk with full powers—but without a telephone listing.

Tourist Season

Barring bad weather and other natural forces, the upper Wisconsin tourist industry should have one of the best seasons in many years, according to one of the barometers most often used to assess the tourist market prospects.

Inquiries to the State Conservation Department's tourist bureau in response to its tourist promotion publicity show a thumping 22 per cent increase over last year, officials report.

In his announcement of reelection candidacy to his hometown newspaper Assemblyman Robert T. Huber of West Allis, floorleader of the Democrats in the State Assembly, said the state must adopt organization reforms designed to cut down the size of the state its costs.

It is not often recognized that some Democrats tend to be conservative on fiscal matters. Huber is one of them, and he is plainly worried about the budget-balancing problem that will confront the 1964 legislature of which he intends to be a part. The veteran lawmaker represents what is known as a "safe" Democratic district.

In the first edition of a new information bulletin for local tax assessors, the State Department of Taxation congratulates them for the low cost of property tax administration in Wisconsin.

The department said that last year there was spent only about one and one half cents per dollar in a property tax program that yielded more than half a billion dollars, which it said compares favorably with the one half cent per dollar cost of the federal income tax which is largely self-assessed and in which the taxpayer's "cost of compliance" is substantially higher.

The bulletin did not mention the cost of collecting the state income tax, although it is likely to be less than in other years because of the withholding law adopted several years ago.

Democratic Aid

The Democratic state organization has launched an ambitious "mutual assistance" program on behalf of party candidates for the State Legislature. It features a sleek magazine type campaign brochure, designed for inserts by the local candidate, and financed with advertising space bought by well-wishers. To some observers it appears to be a fairly expensive project.

But already some local legislative candidates have indicated they prefer to campaign on their own, without identification with the rest of the ticket. Frequently a local Democrat in a district which is held by a strongly entrenched Republican congressman, for example, will conclude that he can do better without associating himself with his own party's congressional nominee.

Two more statehouse elevators, a scint and creaking, will be replaced with automatic machines before the legis-

Kimberly Class Officers Named For Next Term

KIMBERLY — Class officers and student council representatives have been elected for the 1964-65 school year by two classes at Kimberly High School.

Incoming sophomore classes will elect representatives in fall. Serving as officers of the senior class next year will be Marjorie Moss, president; Robert Eiting, vice president; Ruth Veights, secretary and Vicki Seidel, treasurer. Student council returns next January. Predictably, they will be installed in the legislative wings of the capitol. Elevator traffic is expected to increase because arrangements are being made to provide private offices for legislators and their secretaries on a floor above the legislative wings.

Top ranking Democratic organization workers have a general impression that the popularity of Mrs. Val Phillips, the party's national committee-woman, has slipped during the last year and that she may have difficulty in getting a new term at the state party convention in June.

But there is yet no general agreement that her successor will be Mrs. Abe Swed of Milwaukee, the only announced candidate for the position thus far. There is a strong possibility that another candidate will appear, according to informed party men.

Some critics have suggested that because the recessed legislative session in mid-November will be a "lame duck" session, in the sense that it will convene after the fall legislative elections, it may act irresponsibly. Some of the members sitting in November will have lost their seats. But a majority will have credentials for the new regular session in January of 1965, and are not likely to permit any actions that will embarrass them in the new session or in their future political careers, in the view of most capital observers.

cl representatives will be Barbara Rooyakkers, Dick Dearing, Sandy Lamers, Robert Eiting, George Sylvester and Ruth Veights.

Junior class officers will be James Lane, president; Kathy Vaughn, vice president; Karen Lamers, secretary, and Mary Ann Schmidt, treasurer. Student council representatives will be James Lane, Karen Lamers, Kathy Gessen, Kathy Vaughn and Michael Hoppe.

Student Trouble Blamed on Choice Of Site for AHS

Helble Says Same Mistake May be Repeated at New School Location

The selection of an inadequate high school site 26 years ago is the main cause of current problems of student trespassing and loitering in the Appleton High School area, and this mistake may be repeated at the new southeast senior high school site, according to AHS Principal Herbert H. Helble.

Helble's report was read to the Appleton Board of Education Monday by Supt. of Schools Royce E. Kurtz, in answer to questions about the arrest Friday of 19 high school students by Appleton police when the students refused to move from lawns and sidewalks where they were eating their lunches. (Charges of disorderly conduct against all of the students were dropped Monday afternoon after it was learned they were arrested on a public alleyway rather than on private property.)

Mrs. Maura Disturbed
Mrs. George Munro, school board president, said she was "disturbed to hear about this problem."

Kurtz said the problem is "regrettable. We are doing everything we can to keep it under control."

The school does not have the facilities to have a closed day, in which students are not permitted to leave for lunch, Kurtz said, but it is hoped this will be possible in the future.

The major problem is from youngsters going outside to smoke, Kurtz said. Students are not permitted to smoke in the school building or on the school grounds.

"We are continuing to pay for a mistake made 26 years ago, namely, the selection of an inadequate high school site," Helble said in his report.

"Repeat Mistake"

"It appears that we are about to repeat this mistake of an inadequate school site in the proposed south side senior high plant," he said. The present 30-acre site there should have at least 10 additional acres to permit future physical and parking space, he said.

"It would be a grave error to duplicate the present problems facing school authorities and adjacent property owners on the northwest side of town in

Officers Named By KHS Groups

KAUKAUNA — Dramatic Club officers for the 1964 - 65 school year were elected by members of the club who will be returning next year, according to Mrs. Howard Sprenger, club adviser.

Donna Borchardt was named president; Mary May, vice president; and Kristin Kauth, secretary - treasurer. Activities for the season were concluded with a banquet at the school.

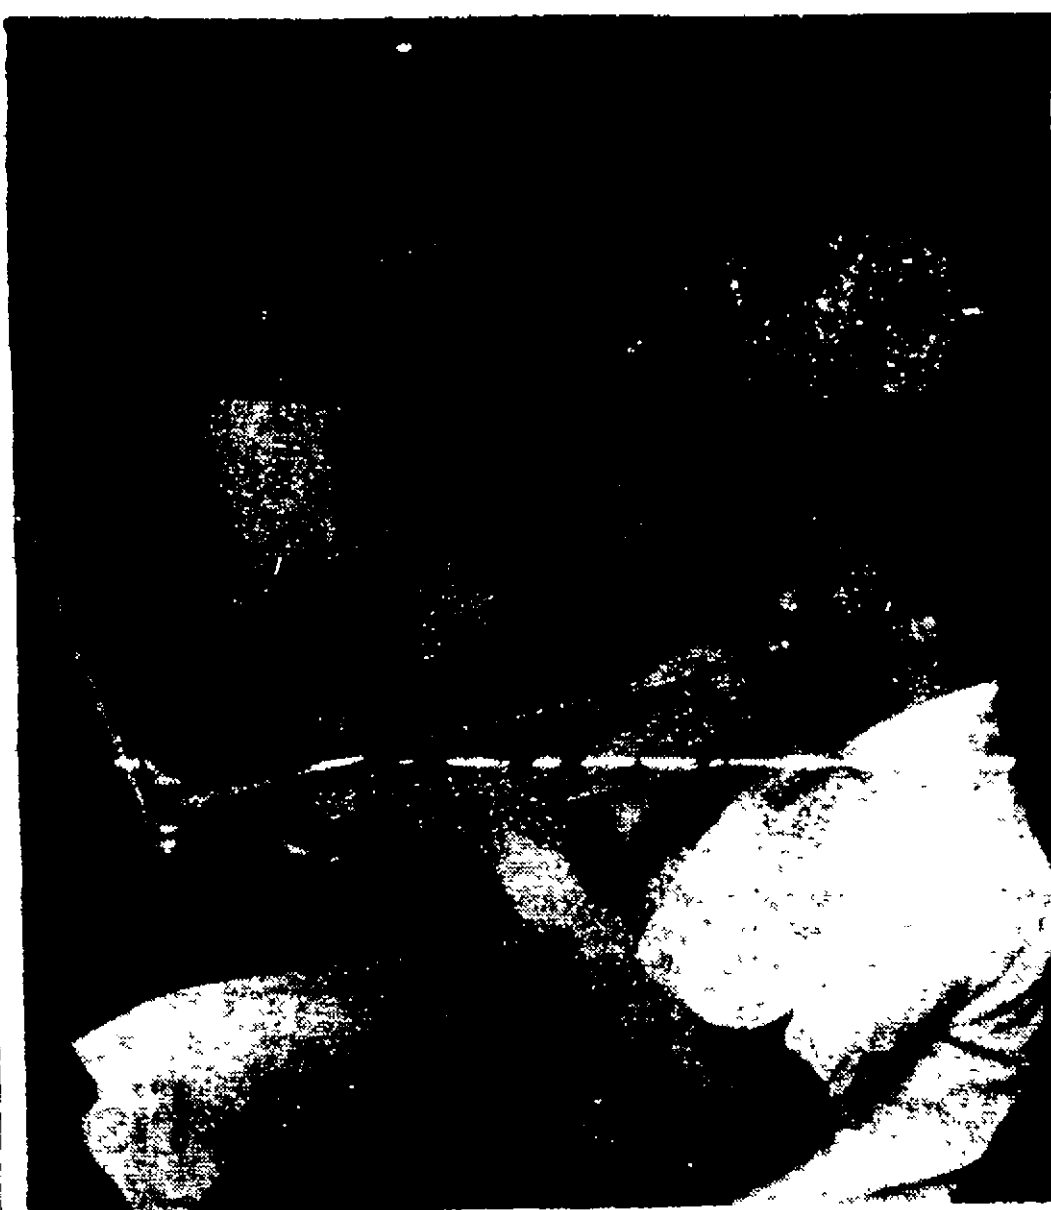

Elections were also held for Quill and Scroll Society and the Forensic League at the school. Named to offices in Quill and Scroll were Miss Borchardt, president; Dennis Hilgenberg, vice president; Lisa Anderson, secretary; and Rebecca Speer, treasurer.

Deborah Schmidt was named president of the NFL with Christine Kehoe, vice president, and David Schwab, secretary.

Other units participating will be Girl Scouts, Junior Girl Scouts, Cadets, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, drum and bugle corps and a baton twirling unit, the Bonnie Lassies. A new group requesting permission to participate this year is the Little Chute 4-H Club.

Serving as master of ceremonies for the program at St. John Cemetery will be Irvin Van Dyke, department vice commander and past Ninth District commander. The firing squad will fire a volley, taps will be sounded and a number sung by the Kaukauna - Little Chute SPEBSQSA chorus. Beverly Hietpas will recite "Flanders Field" and Anne Bongers will give the "Reply."

Parade route will be south on Madison to Main Street and then east on Main to the cemetery. Units will march back to the Legion grounds for flag lowering ceremonies after the main program.

Board Votes Approval

Closed School Day to be Continued At Madison Junior High for a Year

The closed school day at Madison Junior High School, started in January on an experimental basis, is working well and will be continued for a full school year.

The Appleton Board of Education Monday approved a recommendation from Supt. of Schools Royce E. Kurtz and the Madison administration and faculty to extend the program for another year.

"I think you will find it an absolute necessity to go to closed school days to alleviate problems," Kurtz told the board. "I think this study is good for Appleton. It will tell us many things about the present and the new senior high schools."

A closed school day has been mentioned as a possibility at Appleton High School.

A letter to the school board from James Murphy, Madison School principal, requested extension of the closed day program and said, "The administration and faculty in their evaluation have found this experimental program to be basically sound and fitting to our particular school attendance center at this time."

The letter said the program should be extended for another year and then re-evaluated.

Kurtz said much has been learned from the program and "on the whole it is working well." The biggest problem, he said, was that "the machinery was not oiled well enough because it was started in the middle of the school year."

Not Utopian
"In a utopian situation everyone could go home for lunch, but we do not live in that situation any more. Youngsters are coming to school from farther away," Kurtz said. Problems arise with some pupils staying at school for lunch and others going home, he said.

The closed day plan for Madison was requested in January to help solve supervision, discipline and safety problems. Murphy told the board the great number of discipline problems and 25 per cent of the school's accidents came during the noon hour.

Murphy said today the closed day "has eliminated discipline problems during the noon hour completely." Students are not hanging around the school, and school officials know where everyone is, he said.

"To my knowledge we have not had any accidents over the noon hour since the closed day started," he said. Most of the accidents happened on the playground when large, unsupervised groups gathered at noon, he said.

With the closed day, half the student body eats lunch while the other half attends a 25-minute activity period. The groups then are reversed.

The activity period is working very well, although it is probably a little short, Murphy said. It provides opportunity for music rehearsals, play practices and work on the school paper and student council, he said.

Little Reaction
There has been little reaction to the closed day from parents, and practically no negative reaction, Murphy said.

Only about 30 students who live near the school go home for lunch. From 100 to 150 pupils who had been given free bus transportation home at noon because they were from different school areas probably have a longer lunch hour now at school, the principal said.

Madison is the Appleton public school where a closed day is presently being tried.

Guard Armory Plans Sent to Washington

Plans for a new National Guard armory and maintenance center at Appleton were forwarded to Washington today by state officials.

The announcement came from the office of Gen. Ralph Olson, Madison, Wisconsin adjutant general.

The state has approved the preliminary plans and allocated its share of the funds for the $450,000 to $500,000 facility to be built in 1965 or 1966 in Appleton's industrial park.

Land, an estimated 20 acres, was donated by the common council for the proposed facility which will serve the Fox Cities area.

"Although the project is scheduled for 1966, we would like to start building in 1965 if we can," a state spokesman said.

Holding up the project is the lack of federal funds.

If the National Guard Bureau and congressional appropriations committee approves the plan, the project will have No. 1 priority from the state.

Outagamie to Account For Rental Property Which County Owns Action to List Land Stems From Discussion by Executive Unit

Outagamie County is a big landlord, but how big is anybody's guess.

To eliminate the guesswork, an accounting of how much property is being rented and leased and for what purposes may follow a discussion Monday by members of the county's executive committee.

Committee members said there is perhaps no one person or agency within the county which can account for how much land the county has in rental or lease agreements, when the leases expire or what the rental figures may be.

Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath said he planned to survey the properties which the county is renting or leasing and draw up a master list which would be available to county supervisors.

Big Problems
Landlord problems for the county became paramount last year when the county began purchasing acreage for the new county airport in the Town of Greenville.

Much of the property which is not being used immediately for airport or construction has been rented or leased to farmers and homeowners.

Three homes in the area are for rent or are rented and some tenants hold rights to the homesites which they do not have to relinquish until they die or move.

In Grain Program
Twenty-five acres in the airport site are included in the federal grain program for which the county is receiving approximately $43 per acre for allowing to lie idle.

Lease or rent arrangements have generally been made by the county's airport committee which has the power to enter into such agreements without the consent of the board of supervisors. The county's insurance and property committee has also entered into lease agreements.

For rental property, the county must provide insurance coverage and maintenance. The county is not liable for damages or maintenance of homes in the tenant's rights agreements.

Master List
Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer requested that a master list of all property which the county is

Elmdale School
Elmdale, a newer one - room school north of Appleton, was acquired at the same time as Triangle. It is being used this year as office space for the elementary art teachers. The most serious elementary school crowding in Appleton is on the north side, and the board is considering the value of the Elmdale site.

Kurtz said no word has been received on Speel School, which must be settled by court action. The Speel district was split four ways, with the old, one - room building in the section coming to Appleton. The Appleton district wants to sell the school, now standing idle, but a reversion clause in the deed has delayed settlement.

Lawrence Professors
Publish Articles
Two Lawrence College faculty members have written articles appearing in recent professional publications.

LaVahn Maesch, director of the conservatory of music, wrote "Music in General Education" which appeared in the February issue of the National Association of Schools of Music.

Dr. William F. Reed, professor of geology, wrote "The Zenith of the Meteorite" appearing in Transactions of the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters, Volume 52.

More Space Proposed for New Facility

The Board of Education wants to know if Appleton needs a second large auditorium for community use in the proposed southeast senior high school.

Board member Victor Sumnicht asked Monday that alternate plans doubling the size of the proposed auditorium be drawn for consideration by the school board, city council and community.

In preliminary plans for the new senior high school, presented to the board May 14 by architect Raymond LeVee, an auditorium with seating for 750 was included. The school will have a capacity of 1,500 students.

"In terms of parking, approaches to the school and facilities planned for production," Sumnicht said, "I think we should consider an auditorium with a seating capacity commensurate with the other facilities." He suggested alternate plans enlarging it to a capacity of at least 1,500.

More Seating
"I can't imagine any educational program that would need this elaborate a setup," Sumnicht said. But if a touring professional group used the facilities, more seating would be needed, he said.

OF HIGH 348 FOX CITIES logo
"It appears to me we have an imbalance between the amount of space and equipment planned for production and the seating capacity," Sumnicht said. "I think the way Appleton is growing, within a few years after this school is built we will be very grateful for another auditorium, unless a community center is built."

Sumnicht said the additional cost in a project this large would not be very great. LeVee estimated at the last meeting that increasing the size of the auditorium would cost at least another $100,000. The estimated cost of the school, based on the preliminary plans, is $4,280,000.

Board members tossed around the best size of an auditorium and the possibility of eventual

The one-room Triangle School has become a casualty to the modern era.

The Appleton Board of Education Monday ended its service to education, approving a recommendation by Supt. of Schools Royce Kurtz that it use for school purposes be disposed of.

"I see no immediate or future use of this school building. The site is not large enough," Kurtz said.

"I say this with great concern for the job it has done educating boys and girls in the past," Kurtz said, "but we have reached a different era. We have no use for it."

For Maintenance
The Appleton school district acquired Triangle School and its district in the summer of 1962 during school reorganization. The building now is being used for maintenance work, but this can be handled in other schools within the city, Kurtz said.

Kurtz said he did not want to make a recommendation on Elmdale School until the board's site committee reports, because Elmdale is tied in with the site evaluation.

Appleton Public Works Employees' Union Submits List of 14 Issues

Teamsters File Brief With Wisconsin Labor Relations Board for Fact Finding

Teamsters Local 563, representing employees in the Appleton Department of Public Works, has submitted a list of 14 issues for a Wisconsin Employment Labor Relations Board (WERB) factfinding.

Both the city and union requested factfinding several weeks ago when 1964 contract negotiations reached an impasse.

Legal counsel for the Teamsters says it will submit its brief June 8.

A hearing on the union's unfair practices charge against the city is scheduled for June 3 in city hall.

The issues for factfinding, according to the Teamsters, are whether:

—The union should be recognized as the official bargaining agent.

—Lateral or downgrade moves should be excluded from the job posting procedure.

—There should be a 10-cent per hour general wage increase.

—Job duties should be negotiated between the parties and spelled out.

—Changes be made in the pay and reclassification program of the city.

—The present vacation policy is changed to provide three weeks off after 10 years service, and four weeks after 20 years.

—The hospitalization and surgical insurance program should be revised and the city pay 75 per cent of the premium.

Dues Checkoff
—Dues checkoff should be reinstated by the city.

—A definite policy should be defined by the city concerning parttime help, along with a uniform wage rate.

—Workers supplied by private employment agencies should receive lower than the going pay rate.

—All the union requests should be made retroactive to Jan. 1, 1964.

The WERB said the city attorney can suggest changes or amendments to the issues outlined by the union.

climax many years of activity to secure the High Cliff bluff for park purposes, Shattuck said. As far back as 1929 a stirring of interest was noted for the park, but the present project was begun with an area citizens' movement in 1953.

During that year, 1953, the High Cliff Forest Association was organized and incorporated and members of the association solicited help and raised approximately $27,000 as a challenge fund to be used for building or facilities, provided the state conservation commission entered upon a program of land purchase in the High Cliff area.

Two hundred and eighty-eight acres, including about 10,000 feet of shoreline, were purchased by the commission from the Western Lime and Cement Co., with additional land acquisition bringing the total park holdings presently to about 500 acres.

The waterfront committee said that the Banta Foundation, Menasha, has been "of inestimable help in providing funds for purchase of strategic acreage."

The Banta management also provided for the gift of a bronze statue of Red Bird, famous Indian chieftain, which has been mounted on a huge boulder overlooking Lake Winnebago. The statue and its placement was dedicated June 8, 1961.

High Cliff Forest Park is located on the northeast shore of Lake Winnebago in Calumet County.

Neenah Enters Oshkosh Baseball Tourney Finals

OSHKOSH — Neenah advanced to the finals of the Oshkosh district baseball tournament by routing Omro, 13-0, Monday night on a one-hitter by southpaw Dave Fischer.

Berlin edged Winneconne, 7-5, in the opening game. Berlin and Oshkosh will clash Wednesday afternoon and the winner will be the Rockets' foe for the district crown on Friday.

The Rockets collected a dozen hits and had the aid of numerous Omro errors. The lone safety off Fischer was a bunt by Larry Edminster in the first inning. The Neenah senior walked three and his mates played errorless ball behind him.

Don Lee, the loser, went the route for Omro. He walked one and struck out four.

No Prosperity In Agriculture, Byrnes Charges

Congressman Says LBJ Doesn't Want To Discuss Matter

BY FRANCES MCKUECK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Discussion of the American farmer by President Lyndon Johnson in his pep talks on prosperity to press and public is understandably conspicuous by its absence, Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, charged today.

"The reason the President doesn't talk about prosperity in agriculture is obvious: it just isn't there," the congressman said during an interview. He then cited figures to prove his point.

"Probably the most graphic of all is the fact that parity, the legal floor on subsidy, for all farm products dropped to 75 per cent, which is the lowest it has been in 24 years," Byrnes said. "During the Eisenhower Administration parity averaged 84.5 per cent, but it has dropped from 80 per cent in April of 1961 to its present low."

Debt on Rise
Farm mortgage debt is on the rise, according to the Green Bay congressman, who has dug up statistics showing that in 1960, the mortgage debt totaled $12 billion as compared with the present $16.7 billion. Increasing right along with the mortgage debt, Byrnes said, is the rate of interest which rose from 5.1 per cent in 1961 to 5.3 per cent last year.

"Families apparently are leaving the farms because the farm population dropped from 15.6 million in 1960 to 13.8 million last year," Byrnes continued. "In spite of this drop in farm population, the agriculture department has increased its employees from 98,000 in 1960 to

Menasha, Grand Chute to Meet June 9

Town Asked to Remedy Fish Problem

MENASHA — Seven property owners and residents from the area west of Waverly Beach in the Town of Menasha appeared at the Monday evening meeting of the Town of Menasha board, requesting the town accomplish some remedy to the problem of rotting fish in a town ditch near the beach.

The residents estimated they have cleaned up and buried about 5,000 dead fish from their shorelines in recent days, following the huge kill of White Bass and other fish in Lake Winnebago.

One resident told of a neighbor who had buried about 17 wheelbarrow loads of dead fish recently.

The area which the residents requested the town clean up is along the south extension of U.S. Highway 10, south of Highway 114. A drainage ditch runs 116,300 in 1963. In other words, it takes 18 per cent more employees to administer the program to 12 per cent fewer farmers into a widened portion of the ditch at the lake.

Dead fish, with a southerly wind, are being washed into the ditch and widened portion of the ditch, where they become entangled in the brush and debris there, the residents said.

Most of the fish are white bass, with some dead perch, pike and several two-foot eels being found along the shores, residents told the town board.

The smell of the decaying fish in the ditch is quite offensive, town board members learned. This smell, and the added threat of possible disease caused by the decaying fish and accompanying flies, is the reason the residents appeared at the meeting to make their request, a spokesman said.

Amos Page, town chairman, told the residents that he would check this morning with officials of the state conservation department and also would check into the possibility of the town cleaning up the dead fish. He also indicated he would be checking with other municipalities along the shores of the lake to ascertain the problem in other areas and the solutions found, if any.

In other action Monday evening, the town board, acting in response to a letter from the Town of Grand Chute, set June 9 as a date for a meeting with members of that town board.

The request for the meeting came from Don R. Hertling, attorney for the Town of Grand Chute. He said in his letter that the town board of Grand Chute is planning a sanitary sewer project and would like to discuss possible problems involved with the town board of the Town of Menasha.

The Town of Grand Chute, located to the north of Winnebago County Highway BB on the west side of Little Lake Butte des Morts, has purchased land in the Town of Menasha along Mud Creek south of Prospect Avenue with the intention of erecting a sewage treatment plant for their project there.

The Town of Grand Chute has formed a sanitary district and a utility district as two of the first steps in the sanitary sewer project.

OSHKOSH — Sheriff Richard T. "Bud" Lowell this morning took out nomination papers to run for the First District Assemblyman post on the Republican ticket. He will oppose William Steiger, the incumbent, who has been assemblyman for two terms.

Lowell is prohibited under Wisconsin law to succeed himself as sheriff since he has served two consecutive terms. He was elected sheriff in 1960 after serving on the Oshkosh police department.

He also is well known as a sports official.

Steiger took out nomination papers earlier for the office.

The First Assembly District comprises 13 Oshkosh wards.

large one. The Appleton High School auditorium, used often for community affairs and professional performances, seats more than 1,600.

"We do not want to rule out the use of the present high school facilities by duplicating them so that one would stand idle," she said.

Mrs. George C. Munro, board president, said the community might have need for a 750-seat auditorium rather than another of production space is needed regardless of the seating capacity, she said in answer to Sumnitch's statement that the size of the stage and production area seemed to be imbalanced in comparison with the seating capacity.

Dr. Roy Whitney and Sumnitch questioned whether the wing in which the auditorium, music suite and administrative offices will be located should be fan-shaped as planned, or whether a modified or rectangular shape might work out better.

The question of a larger auditorium concerns the city more than the school system, Dr. Whitney said.

citizens and the city council a chance to look at this," Sumnitch said in asking for alternate plans. "We may not want to pay the difference between an auditorium of this size and a larger one, but the community may."

Board members raised other questions about the preliminary plans. Supt. of Schools Royce Kurtz will present their suggestions to the architect, and possible changes will be presented to the board as soon as possible. The present timetable calls for bidding of the school in the fall. It is scheduled to open in September of 1966.

Whitney said the wing in which the offices, music suite and auditorium are located "is not very satisfactory" and "ought to be looked at quite critically." The office area seems crowded and cut up, and the proximity of the band room to the offices is questionable, he said. Kurtz agreed this action should be reworked.

Whitney also raised questions about the physical education wing. The offices there are larger than the principal's office, he said, adding, "I get the feeling the physical education people are a little more imaginative and aggressive than others and consequently they get more."

Shape of Rooms

The shape of the biology rooms, located in the center of the third floor in the circular academic wing, might cause problems in locating furniture, Whitney said. He also recommended that the physics laboratory be enlarged, and asked if the four foreign language classrooms planned are enough.

Kurtz said there is the possibility of using other areas for language classes.

The possibility of making both high school libraries available for evening or community use might be discussed, Whitney suggested. Mrs. Munro said this "will become increasingly important."

Helble Blames AHS Site for Youth Trouble

the southeast area," Helble's report said.

About 250 student automobiles are brought to the present high school Helble said today. The use of cars will increase in the future, he added, noting that the southeast site is far out.

The preliminary site plan for the southeast high school includes three parking lots for 20, 85 and 350 cars. Kurtz said today the large lot will be used for student parking, the small lot for visitors and the other lot primarily for faculty parking.

East In Case

In his report, Helble said a minority of students do not use the high school cafeteria, and eat in cars or on the street. Others use the cafeteria, then walk or drive to stores and return to eat or consume soft drinks in the school neighborhood.

The school periodically warns students not to trespass or litter on private and public property, he said, but "a certain percentage reflects the common attitude of Americans everywhere by violating admonishments and laws relating to trespass and litter."

The problem will continue to grow until the southeast high school is completed and takes pressure off the present plant, which now has a 26 to 28 per cent overload of facilities," the report said.

Reduce Litter
To reduce litter, the school has two chained trash cans at the main entrance and in the rear. The principal made arrangements through the mayor's office two years ago to install containers across the street from the school and permission to chain them to trees had been secured from a property owner, the report said, but the city employee designated to install the cans died and "nothing came of it." The school has had "splendid cooperation from the city street department in frequent sweepings of this area," it said.

The solution to the problem is a closed campus for pupils, but present facilities at Appleton High School prevent application of this solution, Helble's report said.

The present high school site of slightly over 13 acres was given to the board of education by the city administration 28 years ago because it was largely owned by the city. Helble's report said "The main reason for its selection was depression-time economy, not present or future educational needs."

A public referendum turned down the first choice of school authorities, the Riverview Community Club, where more than 100 acres could have been obtained, Helble said. School authorities also asked for a 25-acre site across Badger Road and favored a large site northeast of Roosevelt Junior High School.

Little Integration Is Likely in Virginia

Court Orders County to Levy Taxes and Reopen Schools Desegregated

FARMVILLE, Va. (AP)—Few white and Negro students are expected to share the same classrooms next fall in Prince Edward County despite a U.S. Supreme Court order that public schools be reopened on an integrated basis.

While reaction to Monday's historic ruling from county and state officials was scant, opinions were privately voiced that the net result would be a public school system attended almost entirely by Negroes and boycotted by white students who would continue to study at private, segregated schools.

In delivering the court's main opinion, Justice Hugo L. Black said "the time for mere 'deliberate speed' has run out, and that phrase can no longer justify denying these Prince Edward County school children their constitutional rights to an education equal to that afforded by the public schools in other parts of Virginia."

Court Decision

The case, which has journeyed through a maze of state and federal court decisions since its inception in 1961, was sent back to the Richmond U.S. District Court which was empowered to order the county's schools reopened.

Gov. Albert S. Harrison Jr. discussed the decision with members of the state attorney general's staff and later told newsmen he could say very little because the case still awaits settlement of specific points in U.S. District Court.

Harrison termed the ruling "manifestly a far-reaching decision" in that it marks the first time a court has committed itself to order a legislative body to levy taxes.

Tax Levy

This was in reference to wording in the decision that the district court is empowered to require the Prince Edward County Board of Supervisors to levy the necessary taxes to finance a public school system.

It was the refusal of the supervisors in the face of court-ordered integration to levy such taxes in 1963 and every year since — that resulted in the southside Virginia county becoming the only locality in the nation without public schools.

During the past five years the county's approximately 1,250 white children have attended private schools hastily set up in reaction to the court's integration order. About 1,000 Negro children went largely without formal schooling until last September when — at the urging of the late President John F. Kennedy — an experimental one-year educational program known as the Prince Edward Free School Foundation was established with private funds.

Atheist Is Charged With Causing Girl To Leave Her Home

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—The parents of a 17-year-old girl have charged Medwyn Murray, Baltimore atheist, and her son William, 18, with causing their daughter to abandon her Jewish faith and to leave home.

In a petition filed in a criminal court, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Abramovitz said their daughter, Susan, has been living with the Murrys against their wishes and refuses to come home.

The Abramovitzs contend that Mrs. Murray has encouraged Susan to become an atheist and the girl now wants her parents to refrain from urging her to follow any religious faith, including Judaism.

Mrs. Murray, who is known for her successful suit in having the Supreme Court ban required prayers and Bible readings in public schools, declined comment.

ABC-CBS Boycott

CBS-TV Top Network With Emmy Awards

BY JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — CBS-TV, with 13 awards — five of them via the "Dick Van Dyke Show," — is big winner today of the 16th annual television Emmy Awards.

"It sure pays to boycott," said the handsome Van Dyke, clutching his first Emmy for best actor. "I bet CBS is sorry now they started this whole thing — or maybe they're glad."

Van Dyke was referring to the CBS and ABC boycott of the Emmy show Monday night. Both networks had charged NBC-TV with bloc voting in previous awards.

NBC, the only non-boycotter, took second with nine Emmies and ABC took third with five. Four of them won by the John F. Kennedy documentary "The Making of the President, 1960."

Master of ceremonies Joey Bishop commented on the NBC-TV telecast: "If NBC drops out of this thing, there will be immediate dancing."

Bishop had opened the show with, "Welcome to 'greatest fights of the century.'"

The Van Dyke show also won Emmies for best writing, best directing, best comedy and best actress — Mary Tyler Moore.

The other CBS winners were "The Danny Kaye Show" for electronic photography; best original drama — Ernest Kinoy for the "Blacklist" segment of "The Defenders"; best single performance by an actor — Jack Klugman in "Blacklist" of "The Defenders"; best music — Robert Scherer for "The Danny Kaye Show"; best variety show — "The Danny Kaye Show" and

Goldwater Is Pushing Hard in Stretch for California Primary

Arizona Senator Spurred On by Republican Arrows

BY JACK BELL

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—For perhaps the first time in his life, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., is pouring all his strength into an effort to win a political battle.

It is a grim and fighting Goldwater who is spurring his campaign into the stretch run with New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the 96 California nominating votes that will send the winner of this state's June 2 primary.

For Goldwater, running for office in the past has been something of a happy-go-lucky lark. He drifted into the contest for the Republican presidential nomination without giving much thought to the grind involved in primary campaigning.

First Primary

In New Hampshire's first primary, Goldwater was accounted as something less than an enthusiastic campaigner. In Oregon he canceled out personal appearances a month before the voting when the polls indicated he wasn't doing so well. He was second to Henry Cabot Lodge in New Hampshire and third behind Rockefeller and Lodge in Oregon.

But California is a different story. Goldwater is showing for the first time that, shoved into a corner, he can fight hard.

This state, which once looked like a cinch for the Arizona senator, doesn't look that way anymore. The reason is, in Goldwater's words, that other announced and unannounced contenders for the nomination have "joined in opposing me here in California."

Public Denials

There isn't much doubt, despite some public denials, that backers of every other potential nominee would like to see Rockefeller come out on top in the primary voting in the belief that this would stop Goldwater cold in his headlong accumulation of convention delegate strength.

Even the supporters of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who has had some nice things to say about Goldwater, obviously think their man's position would be bettered if the Arizona senator rode to a "fall."

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's recent statement of Republican principles was assessed editorially by the New York Times as "plainly designed to throw the influence of the party's most distinguished leader against Goldwater."

Goldwater Response

Goldwater's response has been to come out fighting. He did it Monday night before a cheering, banner-waving crowd which overflowed the Oakland, Calif., auditorium.

Packed with Goldwater partisans, the meeting may not have added a single vote to his primary total. But it offered Goldwater a forum in which to declare that "I don't gang up with other candidates to swap your votes back and forth."

"I think that your California votes are worth more than just

Sgt. Alvin York Reported Resting

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Sgt. Alvin York, 76, hero of World War I, was reported resting well and in satisfactory condition at a Nashville hospital Monday night.

York was admitted last Friday for treatment of internal hemorrhaging.

becoming political trading stamps," he said.

Striving out at Rockefeller and his other opponents, he added: "I will not offer you a crybaby candidacy that says do it my way or I won't play."

Cheering Thru

Goldwater, who had planned previously to taper off his California campaigning, told the cheering throng that "I intend to spend the next six days discussing the issues and nothing else, even though the temptation is very great."

This was an obvious reference to the "sneer" charges he said had been made against him in the state campaign.

Earlier in the day, at Shasta College, Goldwater had produced an arrow, stuck it under his arm, and turned around to make it appear he had been shot in the back. He told a crowd of about 1,500 that this was what had been happening to him in recent weeks.

He indicated clearly that he thought the arrows had been coming from Republican bows.

Ship's Log to be Birth Certificate

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Is Barbara Benita Mejias, born in an open boat in which her parents fled Cuba, an American or Cuban citizen?

The decision may depend on the log of the British frigate Tartar, which plucked the refugees from the boat April 30.

Immigration officer Joseph Minton said Monday that Cmdr. B. C. G. Hutchings has been asked to report the longitude and latitude of the pickup.

If Barbara was born within three miles of the U.S. coast, she's American.

Barbara's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andres Mejias, are hoping she'll be an American.

Lawrence Folk Singers Set Saturday Program

Festival Benefit to Feature Jug Band, Sharcroppers, Other Campus Groups

Special musicals at Lawrence College will end their folk singing activities for the school year with a benefit folk festival at 8:15 p.m. Saturday in Stansbury Theater.

Featured artists include Jon LaFarge's Jug Band and the Sharcroppers, two of the Fox Valley's more popular amateur folk groups. Several other student groups also will be featured. Post-Crescent folk music columnist Marshall Gramos will be master of ceremonies.

The program is being sponsored by Alpha Delta Pi sorority and Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. Proceeds from the show will go to charity. The concert, sponsored by a different campus group each spring and fall, earned approximately $300 for Lawrence United Charities in November.

Hortonville Memorial Day Rites Planned

Bluegrass — LaFarge's group plays the music of early Negro bands of the 1890s and 1900s when the Negro blues began developing into the early jazz band. The group accompanies its blues-ragtime singing with kazoo, tambourine, banjo, 12-string guitar, harmonica and jug.

Besides LaFarge, the group includes Phil Shallet, Tom Rusch, Dan Miller and Ted Katoff. LaFarge received much of his musical training from his cousin Peter LaFarge, folk music recording star.

The Sharcroppers, include students Charlie Rushton and Sean Austin. Rushton will join

TV Show Features Lawrence College

Lawrence College will be featured on a program titled "The War Babies Go To College," part of the "New Horizons in Higher Education" series aired by Milwaukee's Channel 6 at 6 p.m. June 7.

Photographers from the television station visited the campus several weeks ago to film the program.

Helen Hayes, Right, "First Lady of the Theater," chats with Perle Mesta, famous as the "hostess with the mostest," at a New York party Mrs. Mesta gave in the actress' honor. Miss Hayes is appearing as several former First Ladies in the new play, "The White House," on Broadway. (AP Wirephoto)

Longer Lasting Medication for Painless Home Treatment of Hemorrhoids

M.P.O. combines fast-acting ingredients in a prescription-type formula to relieve pain and itch—shrink piles.

Doctors have reported "We are quite pleased with the results." In recent clinical tests of Mentholum M.P.O., results were good to excellent for 85 out of 100 patients. Relief starts in seconds—M.P.O. contains more medically accepted pain-relieving ingredients than the leading hemorrhoid preparation. And M.P.O. is homogenized for faster absorption of its relieving ingredients. The instant you apply M.P.O., its anesthetic (benzocaine) and vasoconstrictor (epinephrine) start to work to relieve pain, stop embarrassing itching and promote shrinking. Longer lasting relief—because M.P.O.'s formula has an exclusive stabilized base, the medication is concentrated on the inflamed tissue to keep on working. And it includes Hexachlorophene, the famous germ killer, to relieve bacteria-caused itching and fight possible infection. Get Mentholum M.P.O. today. Sold without prescription at all drug counters. M.P.O. is available in stainless steelment or suppository form.

To Your Good Health

Sex Predetermination Still Being Researched

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. Boys to girls should be substantially equal.

Can the sex of a baby be determined in advance? Can the sex of your next child be controlled?

At this stage of understanding of the process, the answer is no. But there are all sorts of theories: the degree of alkalinity in the vagina, the exact time of fertilization, and the degree of emotional stability all influence the sex of the baby-to-be.

However, in my opinion, there is not much that anyone can do to control the sex. All the theories which of them exert the most influence, and discover whether still others might have even more importance, and find ways, perhaps, of making sure that all factors are mobilized at the same time.

Various Writings

In my mail came a letter from a lady in Duluth who has two girl babies and a lot of books, clippings and magazine articles on how to control sex. She takes me to task for not presenting all these theories to readers of this column and adds:

"In my case, if I succeed in conceiving a boy as planned, I'll always attribute it to science, although you'd probably call it coincidence. I hope you'll print this even if you may not be convinced that these doctors may know more than you on the subject."

I concede that the researchers on this subject know more than I do about it. All I'm saying is that, with all the work they've done, they've only begun to scratch the surface, and such factors as they have not yet studied may well be far more potent than any they have undertaken thus far.

Nature's Odds

I'm neither discouraging nor making light of this study. Quite the reverse. I hope the lady in Duluth has a boy. But I doubt that we yet know enough to change Nature's odds very much, or that it is worth anybody's trouble (except in the cause of research) to try to "decide" whether the next baby will be a boy or a girl.

It may be that some day such control will be possible; if so, it will then be necessary to write some new laws governing whether you will be permitted to have a boy or a girl!

You think I'm joking? If you want to be really erudite, look up the archives of last winter's meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Cleveland and you will find some papers dealing with the impact on society, if, for whatever reason, the ratio of

Dear Dr. Molner: What is monosodium glutamate? Is it safe to use in cooking to bring out flavor? Are there any bad effects from using it every day?

MRS. E. E.

It is a chemical, a combination of sodium with glutamic acid, just as common salt is sodium combined with chlorine, and it has the property of enhancing flavor. It is safe to use with one exception: If you are on a low-salt (low-sodium) diet, you would have to restrict monosodium glutamate since, like boys. I wonder if that wouldn't salt, it contains sodium.

Low income has a bad effect on a young man's happiness.

True — False —

False. If a young man is not earning very much, he expects that, as he grows older and more experienced, he will be earning more, so his happiness is not greatly affected by his low income. An older man is far more often unhappy when he gets less than his neighbors, for he has little hope of bettering his situation. The recent research report we are quoting concludes: "Among the poor it is 25 cents and your name might be said that 'life ends at address sent to 'Let's Explore' 40."

Dr. John F. White
Heads Educational Television Network

Dr. John F. White, Lawrence alumnus, recipient of a Lawrence doctor of humane letters degree, and president of the National Television Network, will be the commencement speaker at Cornell College on June 7.

White will receive his second honorary doctorate at the ceremony—the L.L.D. from the hand of President Arland F. Christ-Jamer.

As head of National Educational Television, White heads an organization which provides a weekly schedule of cultural and public affairs programs to its network of affiliated non-commercial educational stations across the country. He has been its president since 1958.

Immediately prior, from 1955 to 1958, White was general manager of Pittsburgh's educational television station WOED, and during this period the station received a Peabody Award for distinguished programming.

A native of Waukegan, Ill., White graduated from Lawrence in 1941, acquired his master of arts degree from the University of Chicago in 1944, and was given an honorary degree from Lawrence in 1961.

Admissions Counselor

He began his career as an admissions counselor at Lawrence immediately following his graduation and in 1944 joined the staff of the Illinois Institute of Technology in Chicago. He served there successfully as director of admissions, assistant dean of students, dean of students, director of the development program and dean.

In 1959 he left Illinois Tech to become vice-president of Western Reserve and the following year had a prominent role in putting the first accredited college course on commercial television.

In December 1961, White served as a vice-president of the first International Conference of Radio and Television Organizations on School Broadcasting in Rome, Italy. He has been selected as chairman of the Committee of the American Association of the European Broadcasting Union, and directed the organization of an EBU meeting in 1962.

During 1962 he also was appointed by the late President Kennedy to the Advisory Committee of the National Cultural Center.

Indian Dancers Will Open Summer Season

Menominee Indian Ceremonial dancers will open their summer activities on Memorial day at the Indian Village, one mile west of Keshena at the Junction of State 47 and State 55.

There will be afternoon performances on both Saturday and Sunday beginning at 2 p.m. They will feature a series of war dances to honor Indians who have served their country. They also will perform many other tribal dances in tribal dress.

The Menominee dancers were a big hit at the Wisconsin State Fair last fall and are again invited back this year. After Memorial Day many individual groups will be performing all over the state wherever Indian shows are being held. A small group will be kept at the Indian Village to put on exhibitions of Indian dancing daily throughout the summer months.

Convention Platform Meetings to be 'Open'

Laird Urges Attendance by Press and TV During Hearings by GOP in San Francisco

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Probably for the first time in history, the public will be able to get in on "policy" meetings of the Republican platform committee when the GOP holds its national convention in San Francisco in July, Rep. Melvin R. Laird, Marshfield, platform committee chairman, has disclosed.

As Laird explained this innovation of "open" committee meetings at a press conference, he gave the appearance of hoping that the meetings would be well attended not only by delegates and the public, but also by press and TV representatives.

Because of the obvious unwieldy size of the committee — 100 members, two from each state, the membership will be divided up evenly into four groups, with each group hearing different "witnesses." These "witnesses" will "testify" on any subject they wish, according to Laird.

Presidential hopefuls, including Sens. Barry Goldwater, and Margaret Chase Smith have been invited, and have accepted the opportunity to air their views on foreign and domestic issues, the congressman told reporters.

Nixon "Welcome"
He said former Vice President Richard M. Nixon would be "welcome" to talk, but added that the Californian had not yet decided whether he would appear.

U. S. Ambassador to Vietnam, Henry Cabot Lodge, in reply to a "personal" invitation given him by Laird has, in the congressman's word, "left the door open" regarding his attendance either at the convention, or at a campaign committee hearing.

Other witnesses will include labor leader George Meany, a representative of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, farm leaders, and Republican - elected public officials from the Negro race, Laird reported.

Most of the members of the platform committee will be selected at the individual state GOP caucuses or conventions, although a scattering already have been named.

Art Festival Set at Kimberly

KIMBERLY — The annual Festival of Arts will be held at 7 p.m., Wednesday at Kimberly High School, according to Jack Kosh, organizer.

The affair is sponsored jointly by the fine arts, home economic and industrial arts departments of the school and will include a fashion show, wood working projects and art exhibits including paintings, drawings, sculpture, ceramics and other art media turned out by high school students.

Over 200 exhibits may be viewed by the public without charge. Displays will be set up in the commons and auditorium of the Senior High School.

plans for platform committee activities in San Francisco. Laird has been busy interviewing prominent Republicans on a wide variety of subjects, and also even one Democrat, Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

"Secretary of State Rusk visited me in my office this week and promised to give me a concise outline of the present Democratic administration's immediate and long - range program to be carried out in its foreign policy," the Marshfield congressman said. "I requested that the Secretary make this document open — that is, not classified — so that we Republicans can either endorse some parts of it, or openly criticize some attitudes."

Charging that the Johnson administration foreign policy leaders are riding horses "going in opposite directions, and going in all directions at once," Laird said that without the document he requested from Rusk, the Republican platform committee would be unable to determine just what was Democratic policy and what was not.

YOU HAVE DONE THE NEAR IMPOSSIBLE!

When finally we were able to secure "Tom Jones", it was made definite it would be for only one week, fortune smiled and we opened a day early. Then you took over and you by your personal interest, by your barrage of phone calls and most effectively by your endorsement, the film company has been convinced and has given us special permission to hold over "Tom Jones" for additional days. One of the persuasive factors has been the great number of you who have come to see it a second and even a third time and a similar desire expressed by many. Also the great enthusiasm shown the picture through your unharnessed hilarious enjoyment, especially over the week end. (This is the first time in my 27 years in theatre can ever recall an audience interrupting a picture by their applause.)

I Offer My Personal Thanks

20 Million Own Shares Of U. S. Corporations

BY SYLVIA PORTER
close to 20 million of us—and maybe more—own stocks of our nation's public corporations today, the highest number ever, more than triple the total in 1952 and comparing with 17 million as recently as 1962.

Another 120 million to 130 million of us have an indirect stake in the stock markets up and down because we have savings in financial institutions which invest part of our nesteggs in stocks.

Another 2 million of our own shares in our country's privately-held corporations.

And still another 35 million plus who are not yet stockholders are on the threshold of investing, are planning to buy stocks when they are financially able to do so and know more about it.

We are a nation of stockholders as never before and as no other nation in the world even comes close to being.

Fifth Census
The New York Stock Exchange is now beginning its fifth census of shareownership in the U. S. since its pioneering study of 1952. While the results won't be published for a year, there is enough information available and there are enough hints in previous studies for me to make some educated guesses.

My estimate that the total of shareowners now approaches 20 million is conservative. Increases from census to census in the past would suggest that we already have hit that figure, are soaring past it.

But it's logical to believe that the rate of growth in stock ownership slowed after the stock market crash of mid-1962 and during the 1962-63 period of uncertainty about what would be disclosed by the Securities & Exchange Commission's exhaustive probe of the stock markets. It's logical also to suspect that the rate of growth was restrained by last year's doubts about whether and when we'd get an income tax cut. Thus, my guess is that in the past three years, the total has grown only around 3 million and may other estimates of stock ownership are similarly conservative.

What also might the new census show? Here are the other guesses:

Women Shareholders
Women outnumber men as shareholders, but only by a slim margin, and the ratio of 51 per cent female to 49 per cent male in the 1962 census may be even narrower now. Women were badly shaken by the 1962 market break and have been more cautious than men in entering or returning to the stock market since.

Admittedly, key reasons women own so much stock is that securities often are put in our names for tax advantages and we inherit huge amounts—but still the fact is that the American woman is a dominant force in the U. S. stock market and is continuing to become a shareowner — on her own — in ever-increasing numbers.

Housewives comprise the largest single group of shareowners. The total of housewives and non-employed adult women owning stocks is probably above 6 million.

The average shareholder has an annual household income of over $9,000 and possibly close to $10,000. In 1962, the average income was $8,000, and since then household incomes have climbed hundreds of dollars to all-time peaks and there has been a significant increase in ownership of stocks among higher-income families.

Savings Accounts
The overwhelming majority who own stocks also have savings accounts, life insurance, own their homes. At least 50

In a Jam, Down in the Dumps

How Happenings Happen to Happen Happens to be Art

BY HERBERT G. PELKEY

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Men gather at the city dump, where they build a tower and wait for a crowd. Women arrive and lick jam smeared on a wrecked automobile. Refreshed, they destroy the tower and proceed to rip off men's shirts. The men hurl flames. The women shed their blouses and wave them overhead.

A riot? Bacchanalian revel? Such antics are the ingredients of a "happening," a new, avant-garde, three-dimensional art form that combines symbolism with sculpture and elements of the theater.

"It is a raw and brutal spectacle in a way" and "important both as a movement and historically," says Prof. John L. Squire of Cornell University. "As far as legitimacy, it could not be more so," he says.

Kaprow Brainchild
"Happenings" are the creative brainchild of Allan Kaprow, 36, professor of fine arts at the New York State University College at Stony Brook, on Long Island.

The bearded Kaprow says the new art form derives directly from recent innovations in painting. But their remote sources may be found in parades, circus acts, sports and religious rituals.

"They are unique, however, in utilizing sites other than stages or arenas, in eliminating the spectator and rehearsals and in being enacted generally, only once," he says.

The productions are the outgrowth of another Kaprow creation, "environment," in which players are surrounded by sounds, lights and odors. He added voices and action, and "happening" was born.

20 Performed
More than 20 Kaprow "happenings" have been performed at art galleries, festivals and universities in this country and abroad.

A recent production, called "household," was created at the invitation of the festival of Contemporary Arts Committee at Cornell University.

For this setting, Kaprow chose the Cornell dump.

His cast: about 150 students and faculty members.

The sequence of events: Men build a wooden tower on a trash mound. Poles topped with tar paper clusters are stuck around it. The women build nests of saplings and strings. Around the nest, on a clothesline, they hang old shirts.

Cars arrive towing a smoking wreck.

Eater Nest
Women enter the nest and screech. Men roll the smoking wreck into the dump and cover it with strawberry jam. People's voices call "Hey! hey! hey!" Men go to women, put on shirts and squat down and watch them.

Women go to the car and lick the jam. Men destroy the nest—accompanied by shouts and cursing.

It ends when the women, waving their blouses like handkerchiefs, leave the dump and drive away, with automobile horns blaring.

Alma Perry, 19, an attractive blonde from Rockville, Md., said the experience was "absolutely wonderful!"

Michael Singer of Great Neck said the production left him with a feeling of wanting to be alone.

Like a Dream
"I didn't want to talk with anyone. It was like living a dream."

Michael admitted quite a few of the students "thought it was nonsense," however.

The symbolism of "Household" is clear to Kaprow.

"A dump is a graveyard of human waste. Yet it also is a nest generating rats and fires. In time, everything turns to soil; grass, flowers and trees bloom there."

"A household with its attics and basements is much like a dump. Years are packed away in drawers, decaying memories are rubbed into old furniture, resentments smolder amongst the house's occupants, now and then flaring into holocausts."

Bring Home Cows
Authorities gave this account of the accident. Both children were on the tractor about 3:30 p.m. which was being driven by Gary on the Lau Road, north of Little Chute, about one-half mile from the Van Schindel farm home.

Miss Van Schindel was going to a farm field with her brother to bring home cows grazing there. Gary had decided to plow some acreage near the pasture.

A witness told Sheriff Calvin Spice and Kemps that when the tractor turned off Lau Road, it appeared the driver momentarily accelerated the tractor. At that moment, the tractor rolled over.

Gary was pinned under the middle of the tractor for about 30 minutes. He suffered burns to his thigh from the hot tractor engine. He is reported in satisfactory condition.

Senate Gets Amendments On Civil Rights

Dirksen Predicts Enough Votes to Stop Filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders introduced today the package of amendments they are counting on to win passage of a revised civil rights bill.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen announced Monday after a fifth and final GOP conference on the proposed changes that they would be ready for introduction late today—the 64th day of Senate debate on civil rights.

He also predicted that the votes will be available to shut off a Southern filibuster against civil rights legislation. "I believe we can get cloture," he said. "And I think we have to have cloture now."

Dirksen said the changes will be discussed thoroughly and ample time will be allowed for rebuttal by Southern senators, who already have pronounced the package completely unacceptable.

Some senators have said an attempt will be made the second week in June to get the two-thirds vote needed to invoke cloture and shut off the Dixie oratory that has blocked action on the House-passed bill.

Dirksen said this may be a little early.

Decision Required
He noted that a jury trial amendment has been before the Senate for three weeks without a final vote.

This issue must be decided

Ike Points to Necessity for Vice President

Washington (AP)—Declaring that "there should always be someone at the helm," former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says the vice president should have authority to take over the duties of a physically or mentally disabled president.

And in the event the vice presidency is vacant the president should be empowered to appoint his second in command, Eisenhower said.

The former president told a national conference on presidential succession Monday of three occasions during his terms as president when he said he was physically unable to carry out his duties—during his 1955 heart attack, an ileitis attack in 1956 and a mild stroke in 1957.

But he said a disability need not be physical to create problems.

"Let's suppose," he said, "the president is a little bit wacky." With the vice president acting as president, there would be time to get "expert medical and psychological advice" to determine whether the president was able to carry out his duties, Eisenhower added.

Congress should have the final decision, he said, in the event of a quarrel between the president and top government leaders on presidential disability.

Gunman Sought In Kidnap Case

PARIS (AP)—A gunman, wanted for the slaying of a policeman, was sought today as the key man of the Dassault kidnapping.

Detectives said the leader of the four-man gang was Jacques Pierre Casanova, 36, who shot down a Paris policeman during a holdup last July. He is also wanted for at least a dozen armed robberies in the Paris region.

Three other members of the kidnap gang were arrested on Sunday at or near the farmhouse where Mrs. Marcel Dassault, 63, wife of a leading aircraft manufacturer, had been held for 35 hours.

Excise, New Income Tax Slashes Planned

Lima's Police Alert For More Disorders In Wake of Tragedy

Death Toll Set at 328 as Result of Panic in Stadium

BY THOMAS J. STONE
LIMA, Peru (AP)—Feelings ran high in the Peruvian capital today and police were on alert for more disorders in the wake of Sunday's bloody finale to a soccer game.

Police announced an official toll of 328 dead in the panic after police fired tear gas to check a riot in Lima's National Stadium.

The police said 122 of the victims had not been identified. It was the sports world's worst disaster, and the International Soccer Federation, with headquarters in Zurich, Switzerland, asked the Peruvian association for detailed information.

The rioters were protesting a referee's decision against the Peruvian team in a Peru-Argentina pre-Olympic match.

Goals Set For 1966 And 1967

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's long-range plans call for a cut in excise taxes in 1966 and another reduction in income taxes the following year, informed sources said today.

They said there is a strong possibility President Johnson will announce this tentative timetable during next fall's presidential campaign.

There have been a few public hints of further tax revision. On April 28, Johnson said he could "see another tax cut a few years down the road" if the $12-billion income tax reduction enacted this year stimulated the economy into providing enough revenue to balance the budget.

Extensive Cuts Planned
There are signs that the administration would consider clipping almost every category of excise taxes, although there may be both congressional and administration opposition to trimming some earmarked taxes, such as gasoline and vehicle taxes used for federal-state road programs.

In February, Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said at a news conference that reductions in excise taxes could come in 1965, but he indicated that such cuts might not be pushed until 1966 or later.

During Senate consideration of the tax cut bill some senators demanded reduction in excises along with the income tax reduction. Proponents of the tax reduction agreed then to future hearings on the excise taxes.

Many Items Covered
Excise levies cover a wide variety of products and services: cosmetics, jewelry, furs, telephone tolls, automobiles, gasoline, theater admissions, sporting goods, liquor and cigarettes. These levies are expected to provide $14.6 billion in revenue during the fiscal year which begins July 1—an increase of $3 billion since 1960.

Proposals for further revisions in income tax rates obviously would be timed to coincide with the first balanced budget since 1960. Treasury officials talk about balancing the budget in fiscal 1967, which begins July 1, 1966, although they admit this is a tough target.

A dramatic improvement in federal finances obviously would improve the chances of persuading Congress to reduce taxes further.

Morton, Hatfield GOP Leaders at Convention

Oregon Governor to be Keynote As Well as Temporary Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican National Committee meets today to approve Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky and Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon as the top officers for the party's 1964 convention.

The convention arrangements committee named Morton permanent chairman Monday. He had no opposition.

Overcoming opposition from some backers of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., the committee combined the jobs of temporary chairman and keynote speaker and gave them to Hatfield.

Generally Morton is considered a moderate Republican. Hatfield, who usually is associated with the party's liberal wing, had been recommended for permanent chairman by the Republican Governor's Conference.

Back No Candidates
Neither man has openly supported any of the potential GOP presidential nominees.

Some Goldwater supporters had said they would fight any move to combine the job of temporary chairman — for which Hatfield had been ticked—and the post of keynote speaker, which was wide open after National Chairman William E. Miller withdrew from consideration.

After the committee voted 28 to 20 to combine the jobs and then picked Hatfield over Gov. Tim M. Babcock of Montana by an even wider margin, 28 to 10, spokesmen for Goldwater said they were satisfied.

Miller, announcing the selection, noted that Republicans had only two major convention officers prior to 1957.

Television Problem
With no contests for the nomination in 1956 and 1960, he said, the three-way split of top jobs.

Reynolds Reappoints Hanson, Jankowski to Conservation Agency
MADISON (AP)—Martin Hanson of Mellen and Milwaukee Alderman Harold Jankowski were reappointed Monday to the State Conservation Commission by Gov. John W. Reynolds.

Both nominations were rejected by the Republican-controlled Senate when initially made by the Democratic governor. Hanson, 37, is chairman of the Wisconsin Council of Resource Development and Conservation and a brother of Louis Hanson, the Democratic state chairman.

Bayonets, Tear Gas Used

Guardman Shot, 3 Others Hurt in New Racial Violence in Maryland

BY HERB THOMPSON
CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—One National Guardsman was shot and three others were injured Monday night in a new flareup between integrationist demonstrators and troops using bayonets and tear gas to disperse them.

State police said several demonstrators also were injured in the clash as bullets, bricks and bottles whizzed through the air in the city's Negro district.

Hundreds of whites milled along the edge of the district, heckling guardsmen and shouting taunts at integrationists across the street.

Further disorder was averted when Brig. Gen. George M. Gelston clamped a curfew on the town and guardsmen moved shoulder to shoulder down the main street to clear it of spectators. Ironically named Race Street, it divides the Negro section of about 4,000 from the 8,000 white population.

None of Monday night's injuries was described as serious, but the clash was the third outbreak in two weeks and the most serious in nearly a year.

The guard was ordered into Cambridge by Gov. J. Millard Tawes last summer after a series of shootings and arsons. It has been there since.

In the latest eruption, a Negro guardsman was wounded in the left shoulder by a small-caliber bullet. Another, also Negro, suffered a burned hand when a grenade he was holding exploded.

A plastic fragment from the grenade hit the gas mask of an officer, cutting his face. A rock hit a fourth serviceman, possibly fracturing an arm.

Gelston said about 150 demonstrators, all but about four or five of them Negro, had begun marching and singing some two hours before the violence.

Guard details were assigned to key intersections to prevent Negroes from leaving the district and whites from entering it. Several times groups of Negroes tried to march out, were confronted by guardsmen and turned back. As the number of whites along Race Street built up, so did the tension.

No Prosperity In Agriculture, Byrnes Charges

Congressman Says LBJ Doesn't Want To Discuss Matter

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Discussion of the American farmer by President Lyndon Johnson in his pep talks on prosperity to press and public is understandably conspicuous by its absence, Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, charged today.

"The reason the President doesn't talk about prosperity in agriculture is obvious: it just isn't there," the congressman said during an interview.

He then cited figures to prove his point.

"Probably the most graphic of all is the fact that parity, the legal floor on subsidy, for all farm products dropped to 75 per cent, which is the lowest it has been in 24 years," Byrnes said. "During the Eisenhower Administration parity averaged 84.5 per cent, but it has dropped from 80 per cent in April of 1961 to its present low."

Debts on Rise

Farm mortgage debt is on the rise, according to the Green Bay congressman, who has dug up statistics showing that in 1960, the mortgage debt totaled $12 billion as compared with the present $16.7 billion. Increasing right along with the mortgage debt, Byrnes said, is the rate of interest which rose from 5.1 per cent in 1961 to 5.3 per cent last year.

"Families apparently are leaving the farms because the farm population dropped from 15.6 million in 1960 to 13.8 million last year," Byrnes continued. "In spite of this drop in farm population, the agriculture department has increased its employees from 98,600 in 1960 to 116,300 in 1963. In other words, it takes 18 per cent more employees to administer the program to 12 per cent fewer farmers."

The congressman, who is chairman of the House Republican policy committee, says that his party's "critical issues council" recommends that agriculture commence at once to make a gradual transition to a "market" economy.

Commercial Farms

Stressing that the same agriculture programs will not work for both commercial farms and small-scale farms, the congressman says the council recommends "increased rural educational opportunities for small scale areas," and the "promotion of employment opportunities."

"For commercial farms, the council recommends accepting abundance as a source of strength, adjusting price supports so that market prices would normally fluctuate above support levels," Byrnes reported. "The council also recommends that more decisions on farm policy should be made by farmers themselves instead of the government. There should also be a land-use adjustment program, promotion of high-level domestic consumption and encouragement of exports."

New London Man Posts $50 Bond For Hit-and-Run

WAUPACA — Paul E. Steingraber, 18, 300 Avon St., New London, posted a $50 bond in Municipal Justice Court here on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

Steingraber was given the citation for court appearance after his father, Ward Steingraber, brought him to Waupaca Saturday.

Chief of Police Fred Rasmussen said an unknown car struck a utility pole on S. Main Street about 12:45 a.m. Saturday. The right front headlight was broken, and a hubcap was found at the accident scene.

The Waupaca radio station broadcasted the hit-and-run accident and when Steingraber returned to his home he found the car which was damaged by his son, Chief Rasmussen said.

Appleton Man Gets Catholic Vets Post

Clifford McHugh Elected First Vice Commander of State Unit

Clifford McHugh, commander of the Appleton Commodore John Barry Post 204 of the Catholic War Veterans, was elected first vice commander of the Wisconsin Department of the Catholic War Veterans at the annual convention in Madison Friday through Sunday.

The new state commander is Carl Krouse of Madison. The Ladies' Auxiliary elected Mrs. Reinhardt Gressenz and Mrs. Lawrence Steffens of Appleton as two-year term trustees, and Mrs. Martin Hanegraaf, Kimberly, as a three-year term trustee. Mrs. Frank Ott, Milwaukee, was elected president.

Attending the convention from Appleton were Clifford McHugh, Leo Berg Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ruckert, Mr. and Mrs. Reinhardt Gressenz, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Summitt, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kreutzberg, Al Stoekhauser, Mrs. Lawrence Steffens, Mrs. Henry Steffens, Mrs. John Brock and Mrs. John Williamson.

The convention passed resolutions on a number of controversial issues, including shared time, family allowance plan, civil rights, obscene literature, the Supreme Court decision on prayer and Bible reading in public schools and Communist speakers at state-supported schools.

The convention approved a resolution recommending the public adoption of the Family Allowance Plan similar to that in Canada in which allowances of $6 a month for each child up to the age of 10 and $8 a month for each child from 10 to 18 are provided by the government. The resolution stated "the major portion of the children in the United States are raised by a small number of families, and many of these families are below the wage level needed to support children in an adequate manner." Thirty-nine other countries have devised systems of financial aid to help support children, it said. The resolution recommended the plan "so that parents of large families may be able to raise their children in accordance with the American standard of living."

Insist on Equality

Noting that "compulsory segregation by its very nature imposes a stigma of inferiority upon the segregated people" and "many Catholic organizations have remained aloof from this struggle of man for his natural rights" the convention resolved to "insist upon political equality of all citizens regardless of race. This means fair economic and educational opportunities, and just share in public welfare projects, good housing without exploitation and a full chance for social advancement of all the races."

The convention voted support for shared time education in which Catholic students take some subjects in parochial schools and some in nearby public schools, and recommended that it be made available to other faiths as they request it. "This will permit larger enrollments to benefit from a religious philosophy of life guaranteed by the Constitution and at the same time reduce the number of teachers and costs since courses demanding expensive equipment can be taken in the public school," the resolution said.

In other resolutions, the convention:

—Recommended that the Wisconsin Legislature investigate and define the obscene matter problem and strengthen state laws.

—Maintained that "parents have the right to demand cooperation from the state to the extent that it refrain from placing obstacles in the path of religious education and that the Supreme Court reverse its decision banning the saying of the Lord's Prayer and allowing Bible-reading in public schools."

Correction

The Brillion Silver Spur Saddle Club horse show reported in Monday's Post-Crescent as being scheduled Sunday is slated for June 21.

'Eisenhower' to Arrive At Railroad Museum For Memorial Day

The Dwight D. Eisenhower, the war-famed locomotive given to the United States by England, will arrive at the National Railroad Museum in Green Bay on Memorial Day.

A committee headed by Ross Quatsoe announced Monday that the museum program for the arrival of its most prized exhibit will coincide with the celebration of Memorial Day.

Quatsoe said the Memorial Day arrival of the Eisenhower is particularly appropriate because not only has the engine gained most of its fame from its wartime service, but the man for whom it is named, Dwight D. Eisenhower, first came into international prominence as commander in chief of the European theatre during World War II.

The locomotive was delivered to Railroad Museum Board Chairman Harold Fuller in Southampton, England last month. Special delegations from the British and United States governments greeted the engine as it arrived in New York City. Since that time the engine has been on tour from the East Coast to its final destination at Green Bay. The Dwight D. Eisenhower will become a permanent part of the rapidly growing national Railroad Museum at Green Bay.

32,000 Cards To Determine Bridge Fate

25 Per Cent Return Will Make Successful Little Lake Survey

MENASHA — The fate of the proposed bridge across Little Lake Butte des Moris may rest in the hands of approximately 32,000 Fox Cities residents.

This is the number of persons needed to make up 25 per cent of the total amount of cards given out to motorists June 2 in a massive bridge traffic survey to be conducted in Appleton, Neenah-Menasha, Kaukauna and Little Chute.

Leroy Empey, district highway engineer, has noted that approximately 25 per cent return of the cards is needed to make the survey a success.

State highway department personnel plan to distribute 130,000 cards to motorists on 11 bridges in the five cities.

The purpose of the survey is to discover where motorists are going and where they are coming from. The most basic reason is to determine if a bridge is needed.

Seek Returns

Empey and other officials connected with the survey have strongly appealed to motorists to fill out the cards and mail them when they are received. Empey said all cards, no matter how many are received, should be mailed. Motorists will receive a card each time a bridge is crossed.

Officials estimate that 25 per cent return on the cards given out will give them enough information to make a decision on the need for a bridge. A preliminary engineering survey on a bridge has been completed and examined. The bridge traffic survey will decide whether another step will be taken.

Bridges to be surveyed in Neenah-Menasha are Racine and Tayco Street bridges in Menasha and Commercial and Oak Street bridges in Neenah.

Big Problems
Landlord problems for the county became paramount last year when the county began pur- chasing acreage for the new county airport in the Town of Greenville.

Much of the property which is not being used immediately for airport or construction has been rented or leased to farm- ers and homeowners.

Three homes in the area are for rent or are rented and some tenants hold rights to the homesites which they do not have to relinquish until they die or move.

Neutralists in Laos Declare Reds Repulsed

Military Adviser Says Foo Stopped Short of Objective

BY TONY ESCODA

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The Laotian neutralists claimed today that part of their army had launched a counterattack and driven the Communists back in the Muang Khouang sector north-west of the Plain des Jarres.

Gen. Amkha Soukhavong, neutralist military adviser to Premier Souvanna Phouma, said the Communists had been stopped 12 miles short of their next objective, Muong Soui, on a main east-west highway from a main east-west highway from the plain.

Unofficial reports told of clashes only seven miles from Muong Soui.

Amkha said a battalion of neutralist infantry, 19 tanks and 8 armored cars, which had been routed from their headquarters at Muong Khouang, on the north-west fringe of the strategic plain, recaptured two-thirds of the sector.

May Threaten Capital

Prince Souvanna warned the National Assembly that if Muong Soui fell, the Communists would threaten the royal capital of Luang Prabang and Vang Vieng on the main road south to Vientiane.

Some 2,500 right-wing troops were spread out in a defense line above Borikhan, about 25 air miles east of Vientiane. The village is the last major right-wing defense point between another Communist force and the rightist-controlled town of Pakxane, on the Mekong River border with Thailand.

Spurs Peace Talks

The Communists captured the town of Tha Thom 12 days ago and are using it as a base for a move against Borikhan less than 20 miles away.

Souvanna told the assembly he rejected an invitation by the Pathet Lao chief, Prince Souphanouvong, to go to his Khang Khay headquarters for peace talks. Souvanna said he asked Souphanouvong to meet with him at Luang Prabang.

Diplomatic sources said Britain is considering issuing invitations for a consultation here of ambassadors from the 14 nations of the Geneva conference on Laos to discuss steps to avoid further deterioration of the situation.

Communist countries are demanding a full-fledged Geneva conference be reconvened and are not expected to take part in local consultations.

Parents Worry About Sex for Wrong Reason

BY G. K. HODENFIELD

CHICAGO (AP)—If American teen-agers are sexually promiscuous, their parents are to blame. And when the parents worry about adolescent sex, it is for the wrong reason.

Dr. Mary C. Calderone, a New York City specialist in public health, leveled that blunt criticism at U.S. society today.

There have been many surveys on adolescent sexual activity, she said, and "you pay your money and you take your choice. But the facts are that the excellent studies by Christianson of Purdue University show that one out of every five U.S. brides is pregnant on her wedding day."

Dr. Calderone told the national convention of the PTA, "We have done a half-baked job" of sex education. She urged a full, factual program extending from first grade through senior high school.

"The dilemma, of course, is of our own making," she said in her prepared address. "We have in the last 15 years lifted all forms of discipline and control and substituted nothing for them."

"We have given our children the keys and free access to cars, money with which to go to motels, empty houses and apartments, while mother and father are off golfing and playing bridge or what-have-you, and few rules about anything, including sex."

Inferences Drawn

Dr. Calderone said the inference children draw from the books and films to which they have free access is that "while our society wholeheartedly believes in monogamy and sex within marriage, nevertheless sex outside marriage is fun and sophisticated and an 'in' thing."

She told the PTA delegates, "I challenge you to admit that, as a society, our anxiety is not so much about sexual behavior itself as about its results in terms of out-of-wedlock pregnancy and, of course, venereal disease."

Peking Proposes 14-Nation Talks On Laos Situation

TOKYO (AP)—Red China proposed a 14-nation conference on Laos today, charging the United States is planning to send its troops to Thailand "from where they intend to enter Laos."

A note broadcast by Radio Peking declared that "The outbreak of a general civil war in Laos (is) touch-and-go."

Communist China rejected a British request that Peking use its influence in checking the Communist Pathet Lao offensive in the Plain des Jarres of north-central Laos.

Foreign Minister Chen Yi sent the proposal to Britain and the Soviet Union, who were co-chairmen of the 14-nation conference in Geneva that set up Laos as a neutral nation in 1962.

Chen proposed the meeting be held in Phnom Penh, capital of neutralist Cambodia, which has been leaning toward Peking in its war of words with the United States and South Viet Nam.

In London, a Foreign Office spokesman said Britain had received Peking's note and it is being studied.

Port Edwards Man Fined on Tax Charge

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Victor Sandman of Port Edwards was fined $2,500 and placed on two years probation Monday after pleading no contest to a charge of willful failure to file a tax return.

before the leaders' amendment package can be put before the Senate. Dirksen said a consensus had not been reached yet on the best way to handle the jury trial question.

Many senators regard the floor discussion as a marking-time operation until the above-down-closure comes in June.

Dirksen said some additional language modifications were accepted as a result of the Republican caucuses on the bill, but that the package as disclosed last week remained pretty much intact.

Some GOP senators said after the session they believed that chances for passage of the bill had improved, but others voiced dissatisfaction.

Soviet Car Detained By U. S. in West Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—U.S. military police detained a Soviet military sedan for 75 minutes in West Berlin today, a U.S. spokesman said.

The action was in retaliation for similar detention of an American military sedan in East Berlin recently.

10 Study Group Members Picked

County Reorganization Team Dominated by Rural Delegates

MADISON — A special study commission to examine reorganization of county boards to assure more equal population representation is likely to be controlled by rural-oriented interests, developments here Monday indicated.

The Legislative Council announced the selection of 10 of the 15 members of the study group authorized by the recent legislature and gave a majority of the seats to members who have direct rural political ties or have expressed themselves in favor of the existing pattern of county board organization.

They include Sen. Frank Christofferson of Superior, a Democrat who represents an extensive rural area of northwestern Wisconsin; Sen. Walter Hollander of Rosendale and Sen. Alex Meunier of Door county for the state senate.

For the assembly the Council chose Assemblymen David Martin of Neenah, Louis Romell of Adams and Robert Schmidt of Milwaukee. Martin is a supporter of county board reorganization, but Romell has been an opponent of the idea in previous legislative tests.

The Council named John Torinus, editor of the Appleton Post-Crescent, and Harold Wallenmeyer of Waushara, Waushara county corporation counsel. Torinus has been one of the leaders of a citizens committee working for the modernization of the structure of county government.

The Council announced the acceptance of two nominees of the Wisconsin Towns Association. They are Ben Hanneman of Wisconsin Rapids, association secretary and chief lobbyist, and Franklin Jabake, Green Lake and Waushara county assemblyman who has fought all attempts to change the present system of county board representation by governmental units rather than population distribution.

Four remaining members of the commission will be nominated later by the Wisconsin County Boards Association and the League of Wisconsin Municipalities. The state attorney general, or his representative will serve as the commission's chair which is required to make a report to the legislature of 1965.

Magazine Says Pilot Wrote of Faulty U. S. Planes in Viet Nam

NEW YORK (AP)—Life magazine says an American Air Force pilot killed in South Viet Nam clearly meant to portray in his letters that U.S. pilots there were "supplied with obsolete and faulty equipment."

George P. Hunt, managing editor of Life, made the comment Monday in a letter to Assistant Defense Secretary Arthur Sylvester answering the latter's charge that the magazine had "completely altered the sense" of the letters.

Life published in its May 3 issue some of the letters sent by Capt. Edwin G. Shank Jr. to his wife in Winamac, Ind. He was killed late last March in a plane crash in Viet Nam.

The letters, also published elsewhere, were cited as basis for contentions that the United States was using obsolete aircraft in South Viet Nam.

Life of a Movie Star Has Its Bad Moments

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — If dreams come true overnight, half the people in America would probably wake up tomorrow as movie stars.

For some reason they feel the life of a movie star is romantic and glamorous.

To me it seems just the opposite. I think it would be a big fat bore. I'd rather be a banker, an undertaker or a successful burglar.

In the popular mind, a movie star dwells in an atmosphere of wine and roses and goes through the world on a wave of general adulation amid the music of applause.

Actually, no matter how glamorous, a movie star's life is a life of constant struggle. A movie star is less of a god than he looks like a human being.

Being a star isn't a freedom. It's a kind of imprisonment.

The moment an actor becomes a star his ordeal begins. His success brings him a self-confidence. It operates the other way. Success leads to a loss of a god than he looks like a human being.

Being a star isn't a freedom. It's a kind of imprisonment.

Admittedly the take-home pay of a movie star is some compensation for the emotional strains he suffers, but his earnings are meager.

My disillusionment with the life of movie stars came with my first visit to Hollywood. I went to a set where Cary Grant, Bette Davis and a building

It was a long and wordy scene during which all the building had to do was get up and walk across the set, on cue.

But the building was dumb. Over and over and over, Cary and Bette Davis patiently went through their lines. Each time the building mumbled up the act. When I left, they had shot the scene 10 times, and the dog still hadn't got his part right. Why they didn't just shoot him I don't know.

How would you like to be, in the black of the ordinary industry, million-dollar-a-year movie star and still be at the mercy of a bumbling building?

Wherever he goes, the movie star is recognized, pointed at, hounded and whispered about. People regard him as public property. He can't even go into a store and buy a pair of shoes without a fanfare of trumpets.

Most movie stars say this

The Tales Get Worse

The series of trials going on in West Germany of former Nazis accused of crimes against humanity continue to bring out evidence so appalling that it can hardly be believed.

In Frankfurt at present two men are on trial for their alleged parts in the efforts to exterminate Hungarian Jews. Hermann Krumey was a colonel under Eichmann while Otto Hunsche is a former SS captain. Some people have testified to their responsibility in the deportation to Auschwitz of hundreds of thousands of Hungarian Jews. But a few others have said that Krumey at least seemed to befriend Jews as the war neared an end.

New testimony has indicated that these deputies of Eichmann were merely using the Jewish people for a variety of purposes. And the big boss, Himmler, was even dreaming in his mad mind of somehow reaching a German-Western accord to unite against the dangers of Russian communism.

Eichmann first proposed to save a million Jews for $2 million. But he was enraged when only $200,000 in valuables was brought to him as a down payment. So the next demand was for 10,000 heavy trucks to be gathered by Jewish communities throughout the world and delivered to the Nazis. The trucks, it was emphasized, were to be used only on the Soviet front.

But the deal never worked out. Trading lives for trucks is hideous enough. But another reason it failed, besides the impossibility of collecting and delivering the trucks, was the nature of the men in the business of extermination. Their hideous talents, once learned, could not be easily discarded. Like addicts, the killers went right on with torture, gassing, shooting and cremating of their victims until the bitter end.

What's Holding Up Full-Time City Attorney?

Does Appleton need the services of a full-time rather than a part-time city attorney? It would seem the answer is an obvious "Yes."

There has been considerable talk among members of the Appleton Common Council to make the job of municipal legal counsel full-time, but for months it has been only talk.

For some unknown reason an ordinance which would make the position full-time and elective has been pigeonholed in the council's Welfare and Ordinance Committee. Councilmen have given no reason for their failure to act on a matter which we feel is of major importance and for the good of the City of Appleton.

We say the city attorney should be employed by the city on a full-time basis. Making the position elective or appointive has its pros and cons in both directions.

Lest the wrong impression be given, we point out that expressing our viewpoint on the serious need for a full-time attorney in no way is meant to reflect on the ability of the city's present counsel. There is just too much legal work for one man to handle on a part-time basis.

For example: Appleton is undertaking several condemnations in connection with municipal improvements; the railroad has taken the city to court on the Franklin-Washington Street extension; a case is pending before the Public Service Commission in which a church group outside of Appleton seeks to have the city ordered to supply it water; Appleton has been hit by an unfair labor practice charge which is answerable to the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board; and the city is due to enter into factfinding soon because of an impasse in 1964 contract negotiations with unionized employees in the Department of Public Works.

In addition, the city attorney is called upon to render formal and informal legal opinions, prepare ordinances for committees, attend various meetings and serve as the legal authority on all municipal matters, handle zoning documents for the Plan Commission, along with spending time in court prosecuting law violators.

Governing the City of Appleton today is one of the city's largest businesses. The legal problems involved deserve the full-time attention of an attorney hired for that purpose.

California in a Lather

The contest for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate in California, to be determined in the June 2 primary election, is picking up steam. The formerly casual contest is beginning to generate heat and spleen.

Pierre Salinger may have lived out in Virginia for the last few years but his backers in California have home grown attributes. A former advertising executive who takes care of plucky Pierre's television billings says frankly, "as far as I'm concerned Pierre Salinger is a bar of soap and we're going to sell him as effectively as we can."

Most Americans ought to suspect that they are conditioned for the voting booth by carefully contrived advertising campaigns but the Salinger group may be making a mistake in saying so. Soap buyers are notoriously fickle and they jump from the brand which controls perspiration to the brand which softens the skin according to which problem they have at the moment. Salinger and his opposition, Alan Cranston, must determine just what is the California Democratic problem this spring.

"Just a bar of soap?" Even the usually jolly Salinger might conceivably have a complaint or two about such a description which is hardly that of a future United States Senator, even from California.

Canada's New Flag

Prime Minister Pearson's government in Canada is going to ask for a vote of confidence soon from Parliament on what from this distance may seem like a relatively minor issue — a new flag for Canada. But the flag question is really only a symbol of the real problem, whether Canada will survive as a nation or become a loose federation of provinces.

Pearson's government lacks a majority in the House of Commons, but it has not lost a confidence vote in the 13 months it has been in office. He said recently that his cabinet soon would come to a decision on which maple leaf design it would recommend as the new national standard, and that he would then submit that design to Commons and would stand on it as a matter of policy.

Pearson will also suggest to Commons that "O Canada" be declared the national anthem. Canada has used the British "God Save the Queen" since it became a dominion in 1867.

The present Canadian flag, with the British Union Jack occupying the upper left quadrant of a red field, is unpopular in French-oriented Quebec. Quebec is the center of a separatist movement which threatens to split Canada apart. Pearson's intent is to remove the British influence from both the Canadian flag and anthem in the hopes it will satisfy Canada's French-speaking population.

Adoption of a new flag and a new anthem would be at least a sign that Canada will survive as an entity.

Motor Editor Favors Bond Issue

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for May 24, 1964.

We, this week, publish the Law authorizing the City to issue bonds for railroad and other road purposes. The sum named in the Law is $50,000. But the Council only proposes to issue $25,000, believing that sum sufficient for our present needs.

The City Council is composed of men of ability, and unquestionable business capacity, and we believe they will act for the best interests of the City. If they consider it necessary for our prosperity to adopt a liberal policy of improvements, they should be sustained by the people. It is by just such means that neighboring villages and cities are developing their resources and becoming prominent business centers.

Some might say it is necessary to be adopted, sooner or later, to develop our natural resources, then which no other place in the West is more abundantly supplied. Let all interested read the law and become fully informed before going to the polls next Saturday.

We have heretofore proclaimed the necessity of easier access to our Water Power and are convinced that the plan of gaining it proposed is as feasible and easy of accomplishment now as any that can be proposed years hence, after the golden opportunities of attracting capital and the location of extensive manufacturing establishments here — which all admit are necessary to our prosperity — have passed away. — Publisher.

Claim Americans Tortured

Suppress Evidence of Atrocities Against US Personnel in Viet Nam

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — U.S. authorities are suppressing shocking evidence of atrocities committed against U.S. military personnel and intelligence operators captured by Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

Secret casualty reports of the Defense Department and the Central Intelligence Agency show that U.S. servicemen and covert agents were found dead after having been tortured and shot from behind.

Reliable military sources, with access to individual personnel files of both agencies, say a number of the atrocities are as shocking as those committed by the Chinese and North Korean Communists during the Korean war.

They report that in one incident the bodies of two Americans were discovered with their hands tied behind their backs. The servicemen had been shot in the back of the head and their bodies hidden under jungle underbrush by their Red captors.

According to these Inside Pentagon sources, no detailed report or overall accounting of these atrocities has ever been compiled for presentation to President Johnson or the National Security Council, highest U.S. policy-making body.

These military experts stress that the Defense Department's failure to make a report is due to Secretary McNamara and his chief civilian aides' flat refusal to recognize these brutal slayings as atrocities, although the evidence is overwhelming that the servicemen were killed after being taken prisoner.

They point out that McNamara and his aides have cold-bloodedly held in private talks that the atrocities be listed as "regular casualties," contending that the killings were committed in the heat of battle.

THE SILENT MEN — CIA Director John McCone is supporting the policy of not making the atrocities a public moral issue, as it has been a long-standing policy of the Central Intelligence Agency never to reveal details of how or when their agents die, despite the Communist brutality in South Viet Nam.

In several incidents South Vietnamese working for the CIA have been found floating in rivers and swamps with platoon, was appointed a company commander in the ROTC unit at Campion High School at Prairie du Chien.

Miss Edith Reochygl, head of Appleton Public Library, was to attend the conference of the American Library Association in Minneapolis.

Delta Sigma Rho honors in the field of forensics went to four area students at the University of Wisconsin. Honored at the forensic society's banquet that week were A. R. Fowler Jr., Neenah; Kay Jo Koster, Clintonville; Jerome Polinsky and Oscar Schmiede, both of Appleton.

their hands, arms, legs and heads cut off. The Viet Cong butchers use these torture methods of slaying CIA agents to dissuade other Vietnamese from becoming informers or operators for the U.S.

The latest CIA estimate on Laos reveals that Communist Pathet Lao fighting under North Vietnamese officers used poison to kill more than 100 anti-Communist tribesmen, supplied and armed by the CIA, after they were overrun in recent fighting in that Southeast Asian nation.

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge's mysterious silence on the atrocities is the big puzzle among U.S. military officers who briefed the former Ambassador to the United Nations.

In November 1953, Lodge won worldwide acclaim by condemning the North Koreans and Chinese Communists for their atrocities in Korea.

In a major policy speech approved by then-President Eisenhower over the opposition of the State Department, Lodge stressed the need for publicly airing these atrocities, stating:

"We consider today the question of atrocities committed against U.S. prisoners in Korea. The United Nations charter, which commits us all to prevent aggression and to uphold the dignity and worth of the human person, and to seek respect for international law, makes it fitting that we do so.

"We are faced with a whole series of acts, involving citizens of the U.S. and Korea — acts which affront these basic principles, which inspire horror and revulsion in any civilized mind, and which we must not suppress."

LODGE TO RETURN — During his briefings in Saigon, Lodge expressed deep personal shock over the new atrocities, but he had made no recommendations to Washington as to what should be done about the horrible Communist acts.

Military friends of Lodge who worked closely with the Ambassador at the UN believe the former GOP vice-presidential candidate is hiding his fire until he returns to Washington next month for a round of official and private consultations.

The U.S. Ambassador to South Viet Nam has written Representative Melvin Laird, R-Wis., chairman of the Platform Committee for the Republican national convention, that he plans to be in the U.S. in late June and early July when he will be available to appear before his committee.

The Platform Committee will offer Lodge a nationwide TV forum to give his views on what should be done in South Viet Nam, including any statement he might want to make about the atrocities.

It was Lodge's UN speech that touched off a full-scale investigation of the Korean war atrocities by the Senate Government Operations Committee headed by then-Senator Charles Potter, R-Mich.

CAPITOL FLASHES — Representative William T. Murphy, D-Ill., plans to seek a full-scale congressional investigation of the Communist atrocities in South Viet Nam. A member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, Murphy has obtained on-the-spot accounts of atrocities committed by the Viet Cong forces against South Vietnamese troops. . . . When he appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee recently, Defense Secretary McNamara ducked answering whether he had supported the overthrow of the late President Diem. Representative Clement J. Zablocki, D - Wis., asked the question. When McNamara persisted in refusing to answer, Zablocki told him to consult his conscience. Under Zablocki's questioning, McNamara did admit that desertions by South Vietnamese troops to the Viet Cong were running much higher than when Diem was in power. (All Rights Reserved)

Democratic Charges Of 'Boss Rule' Not Heard in State Today

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — Grumbling by a Milwaukee candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney general about the admitted effort of top Democratic Party officials and organization to pick candidates brings up again the question of party leaders' role in ticket-making.

William Evans, who has aspired unsuccessfully to state office four times in the last decade, wants to run for attorney general. It is an important office. Gov. Reynolds, Chairman Louis Hanson and National Committeeman Lucy prefer Bronson C. LaFollette in that ticket place. They have made no secret about their promotion of the young action of what is perhaps the state's most famous political family.

To Evans this is improper and unfair and a contradiction of the spirit of the open primary law. It is reminiscent of "endorsement," something which the Democrats viewed with alarm during the many past years that Republicans were trying to select their own tickets through the device of formal convention blessings upon favored candidates for primary election nominations.

INEVITABLE
Mr. Evans is entitled to his interpretation of the spirit and the letter of the primary law. But it is pertinent to recall that all aspirants for nominations, whatever the origin of their candidacies and their preferential status among the party machine officials, must submit to the review of the voters in the primary elections. Those who are not so favored have often challenged such ticket maneuvering by appealing to the voters.

It is also important to recall that all political parties worthy of the name have concerned themselves with preliminary ticket planning and have been unwilling to entrust that crucial matter to the sometimes whimsical choice of the uninstructed rank and file voter in the primaries.

Gaylord Nelson was not promoted for the governorship in 1958 through a spontaneous expression of the voters in the precincts. His candidacy was carefully prepared and promoted in the highest levels of the Democratic Party, so carefully and effectively, indeed, that he won the top office nomination that year without challenge in the primary. John Reynolds had similar private encouragement in the upper ranks when he ran for attorney general five years ago.

Party machine officials habitually regard as one of their primary duties the recruitment of candidates for sheriff and assemblyman and county surveyor to beef up ticket appeal. It is quite as natural for men who are interested in defeating the opposition to solicit the most attractive candidates for state office, or those who appear to them to be most effective and attractive. To argue otherwise is to consign party organization leadership to the role of stuffing envelopes and buying publicity.

GOP ENDORSEMENTS
Complaints about upper echelon Democratic Party ticket-making reflect a propaganda theme of the anti-Republicans of the state which is no longer relevant today. As the Democrats fought their way up to competitive status, they exploited what they called the issue of "boss rule" in Republican politics as exemplified, they maintained, by the GOP habit of endorsing favored candidates in delegate conventions. Democrats as a whole say little about such Republican proceedings today. They are more aware of the exigencies of practical partisan politics. They are also saying less about Republican campaign chests, since they have learned how to raise generous sums of money for their own campaigns.

There are earnest Democrats, moreover, who would adopt the Republican convention system, but who have been unable to wear away their rank and file from the postures of earlier eras. They feel that ticket making in a public hall, subject to the consent of a couple of thousand party activists and in the full glare of publicity, is preferable to the carpentry completed by a handful of politicians in the privacy of a Madison select caucus.

Blame That Accident On 'Phantom Truck'

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"I was very interested in your column on 'projection' a few weeks ago," writes a man in Pennsylvania.

"As someone who has worked in traffic safety for the last 19 years, I can assure you that the tendency to blame others is the outstanding characteristic of every motorist involved in an accident."

"I have almost never investigated a case — even on the scene, where the facts quite plainly spoke for themselves — in which a driver admitted his fault. And this is not just fear of prosecution, for even when no law is broken, the average motorist has a need to blame something outside of himself for an accident."

"Nobody ever admits he was going over the speed limit. No one ever dotes off at the wheel. No one ever takes reckless chances. No one ever shoots out on a highway from a side road without looking. No one ever begins passing on a curve or up a hill."

"The people in my business have a standard joke about 'the phantom truck.' When a driver cuts in too suddenly and hits another car, he invariably blames it on some truck that was coming toward him too fast and forced him to cut in. No one else has ever seen this truck. It has no license plates, and can never be found."

"Then there is the stuck accelerator. You'd be surprised at how many accelerators get stuck and are responsible for accidents — although when we examine the car afterwards, the accelerator seems to be working fine. Brakes fail, too, at the most peculiar time — and, just as peculiarly, are in good working order again after the accident."

"Drivers get blinded by rays of sunlight, or their sight is obscured by fog, or they suddenly sneeze, or the cigarette lighter jumped out of its socket and disconcerted them. It is never their own inattention, their carelessness, their fiddling with the radio or lighting a cigarette when they should have been paying heed to the road."

"In 19 years, Mr. Harris, I can remember only one person — a college boy — who openly and completely admitted his responsibility and refused to blame anything outside of himself. We almost kissed him with joy. But all the others — and they include ministers, teachers, public officials — had no trouble in projecting their fault onto the car, or another car, or the road, or the lights, or a black cat that had crossed the highway just in front of them."

"Yet, in more than 90 per cent of the cases, it is the driver, and nothing else, that is at fault. We know this for an absolute fact. It's little wonder that men in traffic safety are so cynical about all excuses. We've heard them all, and every one is a kind of phantom truck."

2 Bills Signed Into Law by Gov. Reynolds

Enables Counties
To Set Up, Finance
Study Commissions

MADISON (AP)—Gov. John W. Reynolds signed two bills into law Monday, including a measure that provides for the establishment of community relation-social development commissions.

The new act permits and urges county boards to set up the agencies and appropriate funds for their operation.

Functions of the commissions include study aimed at recommended solutions to social, economic and cultural problems that affect family, youth, education, aging and delinquency.

The commissions also would attempt to educate various classes, races, religious, ethnic and minority groups to foster mutual self-respect, understanding and harmony.

Also signed by Reynolds was a bill that makes an orange flag the distress signal for boats.

The legislation provides that the flag be about 18 by 30 inches in size and that persons sighting it must render assistance if such action does not endanger the rescuers.

Vetoed by the governor was a bill that attempted to add four areas to the list of the Recreation Committee land acquisitions financed by cigarette taxes. The areas are Tim's Hill and Ring Hill on the west shore of Big Muskego Lake, Waukau Marsh and Florence Lake.

Reynolds called the bill "entirely ineffectual" since the priority list cited expired June 30, 1963.

Charges Against AHS Students Dismissed

Investigation of Littering, Littering Incident Leads to Action by Police Chief

Police Chief E. O. Wolff Monday afternoon dismissed charges of disorderly conduct against all Appleton High School students involved in a crackdown Friday on students accused of littering and loitering in the high school area during lunch hour.

Waivers had been obtained for 12 juveniles involved in the arrest and city attorney warrants were being prepared for five others who were over 18 years of age. Two of the students were to have appeared in Juvenile Court.

Wolff said an investigation of the incident brought about the withdrawal of charges. He said it has been pointed out that the students were not on private property when they were ordered to move by policemen at the scene.

Standing in Alley
The students were apparently standing on a 30-foot wide strip of public alleyway between houses facing Winnebago Street. Wolff said there was no alleyway apparent to the policemen and they assumed the students were on private property.

Wolff said not all of the 19 were standing in the alleyway. But, he said, he preferred to drop all charges to avoid having a few be "scapegoats" for the incident.

The youths were to have appeared Wednesday before County Judge Gustave Keller in Outagamie County Court Branch 1.

Monday afternoon police placed a heavy patrol of motorcycle and unmarked cars in the Appleton High School area. Police reported there were no reports of Friday afternoon's incidents in which the 19 were taken to the Appleton police station, questioned then released to return to school.

Wolff met with several parents of the youths Monday and discussed the incident before the charges were dropped.

Thompson Object Of Criticism

MADISON (AP)—Atty. Gen. George Thompson was criticized today for putting a special staff consultant at the head of one of his election campaign committees.

Bronson La Follette of Madison, a candidate for the Democratic nomination to oppose Thompson, said the selection put the consultant, David A. Weber, "in a position of conflict of interest."

In a statement, La Follette said Weber was being paid $32 a day as a special consultant on the Republican attorney general's staff. Thompson, also has named Weber chairman of the Citizens for Thompson-Attorney General Committee, La Follette said.

"As a result, the taxpayers of Wisconsin who pay Weber's salary are also paying for his political activities," La Follette concluded.

Scattered Showers and thundershowers are expected Tuesday night from the central Pacific coast through to the upper and mid-Mississippi valley, from the Ohio valley and lower Great Lakes to the northern Atlantic coast states and parts of the southern plains. It will be cooler from the central plains to the Great Lakes and warmer in the Pacific northwest and northern Rockies (AP Wirephoto Map)

Seek State Help For Problem Of Dying Fish

Bubolz Notifies Conservation Head Of Dead White Bass

State officials of conservation and health agencies promised their aid today in reducing problems of waves of dead fish washing up on northern and eastern shores of Lake Winnebago.

Gordon Bubolz, chairman of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission, notified L. P. Voigt, state conservation director, of the problem. Voigt said Bubolz's call today was the first notification he had of the problem.

Fish, mostly white bass, are believed to be dying from an algae entering the gills and suffocating them.

Send Deputies
Voigt told Bubolz he will send several of his deputies to the area to investigate the problem.

Dr. E. H. Jorris, assistant state health officer, also will study the problem, Bubolz said.

Bubolz said he has received calls from lakeshore residents that the fish are creating an awful stench, attracting flies and polluting water.

"This problem, Bubolz said, 'definitely calls for the exercise of the state's water trusteeship responsibilities. In the event this kind of problem cannot be effectively dealt with and additional laws are needed, they will be recommended by the planning commission.'"
